B.C. FISH PACT DEBATED TO-DAY AT WASHINGTON

Bennett and Roosevelt Also Discuss St. Lawrence Waterway Proposal in Addition to Trade Reciprocity Conference Ends This Afternoon

By R. K. Carnegie
Canadian Press Staff Writer
Washington, April 28.—Prime Minister Bennett of Canada spent this forenoon at the Canadian legation here in conference with Hon. W. D. Herridge, Canadian Minister to the United States, and advisers as President Roosevelt sent his nomination of Warren Delano Robbins as minister to the Dominion to the Senate for approval.

The Canadian Prime Minister was scheduled to confer with the President later to-day.

Negotiations between the Dominion and the United States are progressing exceedingly well. It was learned at the White House at noon to-day.

So far the Ottawa Imperial Conference agreements have not caused any difficulty—in fact, they have not been mentioned.

The talks between the President and Mr. Bennett will be concluded this afternoon.

Tariff negotiations have to await the additional authority Congress is to give the President before being concluded.

SALMON TREATY
The sockeye salmon treaty is being discussed again. That treaty has a lengthy history. It is designed to protect the sockeye salmon in Fraser River area. Canada has ratified such a treaty, but it was defeated in the United States Senate. The chief objection comes from the Washington State fish interests.

The St. Lawrence waterway treaty has also been up for discussion.

Washington, April 28.—With Canadian-United States trade to the fore, but with their hands apparently tied on definite action until after the World Economic Conference in London, Prime Minister Bennett and President Franklin D. Roosevelt continued their negotiations here to-day.

Meeting at the White House, where the Canadian Premier is a guest, the two national leaders took up the conversations where they had left off yesterday.

PARTNERSHIP COMES TO END

Ben Bryan and Partners Retire From Business After Long Career

Local Branches to Continue As Usual Under Other Connections

Local offices of Logan & Bryan and their personnel throughout the United States and Canada are not affected by the announcement of the retirement from business of Ben B. Bryan, the veteran head of the "great brokerage" organization and its partners.

The offices of Logan & Bryan in various cities, forming the largest international brokerage chain in the world, are being distributed among other senior New York Stock Exchange member houses of corresponding standing. The firm of Jenks, Gwynne and Company are taking the Victoria, Vancouver and Canadian offices. E. A. Pearce & Company are taking the Washington, D.C., and J. S. Bache and E. F. Hutton & Company are dividing the California and eastern offices. Division of office in other states are being arranged to-day.

The retirements will not affect the conduct of business in any of the branch offices and they will be continued without any interruption.

PERSONAL PARTNERSHIP
The Logan & Bryan firm for upwards of half a century has had an unassailable name and the partners decided, now that the time had come for them to retire, that they would go out of the business world with them and not be used as a commodity to cash in on for their own material benefit and at the expense of their customers. Since the establishment of the partnership they have considered it a personal partnership and with the retirement of the partners the firm name should go with them. The partnership has never owned any property anywhere or any of its offices.

As it followed the retirement rule not to tie up any of its funds and always to maintain 100 per cent liquidity.

Mr. Bryan, one of the two who established the partnership, is well known in Victoria and on this island. He has been coming here once each year to spend a week fishing at Campbell River in his ambition to win a golden "fleece" button there. Some four years ago he was elected to the position.

Washington, April 28.—With Canadian-United States trade to the fore, but with their hands apparently tied on definite action until after the World Economic Conference in London, Prime Minister Bennett and President Franklin D. Roosevelt continued their negotiations here to-day.

Meeting at the White House, where the Canadian Premier is a guest, the two national leaders took up the conversations where they had left off yesterday.

LEADERS IN CUBAN CONTEST

While Cuban exiles in New York are making plans for the overthrow of President Gerardo Machado's dictatorship in Cuba, an underground warfare is being prosecuted in the island paradise between the Machadistas, supporters of the President, and a group of societies, opposed to the government, which have combined with the common aim of acquiring control of the country.

In New York, Dr. Carlos de la Torre, right, former professor at the University of Havana, has been elected president of a new Cuban revolutionary junta, composed of prominent exiles, among them are Dr. Miguel M. Gomez, former mayor of Havana, President Machado, left, keeps strong guards about his palace in Havana.

Oil Promoter Wanted For Trial in Oklahoma, Says Abductors Menace Him in International Settlement

Shanghai, April 28.—C. C. Julian, Canadian-born oil promoter, who is wanted in Oklahoma City to face federal charges of fraud, requested police protection to-day, saying he feared abductors seeking a reported reward of $5,000 in gold for his arrest.

The authorities placed an armed guard for his protection.

The promoter, a native of Morris, Manitoba, has declared he defies all attempts to extradite him to the United States. He reiterates that he desires to enter business in Shanghai.

He claims extradition treaties do not reach here.

NORTH OKANAGAN LIBERALS READY
Dr. K. K. Macdonald Named Candidate For Legislature at Meeting at Vernon

Vernon, B.C., April 28.—At one of the largest Liberal conventions in the history of the North Okanagan, Dr. K. K. Macdonald of this city was unanimously chosen yesterday afternoon as candidate in the provincial general elections.

A veteran resident, Dr. Macdonald represented the riding in the Legislature from 1916 to 1924, but after being re-elected for a third time in 1924, was defeated by the late Arthur Cochrane in a by-election when the late Premier Oliver selected him for cabinet honors.

He declined the nomination in favor of Dr. P. D. Van Kleeck in 1928.

The convention came immediately after the Bowser meeting here the previous night, and F. B. Cossett, president of the North Okanagan Liberal Association, was vigorous in his criticism.

SOON WILL TAKE POST AT OTTAWA

E. A. Wilson, Principal in Sensational Case, Employed By Express Company

Man Who Started New Cult on Island Believed to Be Living Near Seymour Narrows

Special to The Times
Nanaimo, April 28.—Edward A. Wilson, known as Amiel de Valdes and Brother XII, principal in the sensational Nanaimo case, was born in the south of England, the son of an English clergyman. He is of swarthy complexion, slightly built, wears a beard, is about fifty-six years of age and has a colorful career. He was known personally in England by Alfred H. Barley, plaintiff in the second case.

Arriving in Canada twenty-six years ago, he worked for the Dominion Express Company in Calgary and was later transferred to the Brockington Street branch in Victoria in 1907, working there for some time. He left Victoria and went to the Okanagan with his wife to engage in ranching. He was unsuccessful in this venture, and the express company gave him a job as caretaker at a small station at Edgewood. He left there, and is believed to have gone to Italy. He became associated with the Theosophists. He claims to have received the "call" to commence his work when lying at death's door in Rome, suffering from angina pectoris. He was miraculously revived and given "instructions" to go to England to publish "the message."

Wilson apparently called the South Sea Islands during his life. He appeared to be conversant with life there. He claims to have his captain's certificate and acted as pilot for a transoceanic voyage across the Atlantic during the Great War. He also sailed the Lady Royal from England, a British sailboat of small dimensions to Cedar-by-the-Sea, near here. He claims to have been a doctor in the States.

MANION FORESEES LOWER TARIFFS

Ottawa, April 28.—Tariffs throughout the world must come down, Hon. R. J. Manion, Minister of Railways and Canals, said in the House of Commons yesterday evening. Action, however, must be taken on a world-wide scale and it would be suicide for Canada or any other single country to lower its tariff while all others were maintained by the rest of the world, he added.

"I believe there is such a thing as going crazy over tariffs," said the minister, "and I think that is what the world has done."

Dr. Manion made his tariff comment by way of an aside as he was piloting amendments to the railway bill through the House.

The famous transatlantic liner left the Feltham airport in England January 7, announcing his first stop would be at Brindisi, Italy. From the time of his departure, however, no word was heard of the airman. He sought to break the England-Australia air record held by C. W. Scott of eight days, twenty hours and forty-nine minutes.

He was the object of a prolonged search throughout the north of Italy and in the Swiss Alps. A veteran of many long flights, Manion, twenty years ago set a speed record of something over fifteen days for the flight from London to Australia.

FRENCH AND U.S. LEADERS AGREE

Understanding on Economic Changes Announced Before

Washington, April 28.—An understanding between France and the United States on the problems of world economic recovery was announced to-day by President Roosevelt and M. Herriot, the French envoy.

Their final joint statement referred almost completely to the economic phase of their discussions.

"We have noted with deep satisfaction," said the two statements, "that our two governments are looking with like purpose at the main problems of the world and the objectives of the World Economic Conference."

Earlier in the day the President and M. Herriot had announced a "frank" discussion of the war debts issue with discussion of hope these discussions would be continued in Paris and in Washington.

M. Herriot departed for New York in the early afternoon en route to France.

The earlier statement to-day read: "The President has discussed with M. Herriot the problem of international governmental debts."

"The President has set forth the entire situation from the American point of view and M. Herriot has explained how the problem appears to the French government and parliament."

"This long exchange of views, which was of the most frank and friendly character, was for the purpose of reaching a clearer understanding of the realities of the situation and will undoubtedly help in determining the steps to be taken hereafter."

Six Gas Jets Turned on in House by Unknown Intruder While Mr. and Mrs. Gale, Their Two Sons and Daughter-in-law, Maid and Caretaker Sleep; Harry Gale Awakens, Smells Fumes and Arouses Others

Canadian Press
Vancouver, April 28.—Asphyxiation of the family of R. H. Gale, one-time mayor of Vancouver, was averted early this morning by the quick thinking of Harry Gale Jr., who, although almost overcome by gas fumes, managed to arouse other members of the family and turn off six gas jets which had been opened in the kitchen of the family home at 3637 Hudson Avenue by an unknown intruder.

In addition to Mr. and Mrs. Gale Sr., Mr. and Mrs. Gale Jr. and Robert Gale, there was a maid, Mrs. Brooks, and a caretaker, John Drinkell, in the house.

All six jets of the gas range had been opened and the awing door of the kitchen leading to other rooms in the house had been propped open with a newspaper.

The key in the kitchen door had been pushed out of the keyhole from the outside.

Mr. Gale states the person who made the attempt to murder his family must have entered the dwelling between 1:30 and 4 a.m. Mrs. Gale having retired at the former time and awakened at 4 o'clock. She was unable to rise because of the gas, however, and sank back to sleep.

GAVE ALARM
"My son, Harry, was awakened by the effect of the fumes," Mr. Gale said. "He jumped out of bed and rushed into the hall on the second floor to arouse other members of the family. He then ran to the kitchen, turned off the gas jets, and opened the windows and doors."

"I have not the remotest idea who would want to commit such a crime," Mr. Gale continued. "It must be the work of a fanatic."

Except for severe headaches, members of the Gale family are none the worse for their narrow escape from death.

Mr. Gale states he was choking with gas, when awakened by his son.

The intruder did his work well, according to Mr. Gale. Five gas jets on the top of the stove had been opened, as well as one in the oven. The oven door had been propped open to allow the fumes to escape.

Winnipeg, April 28 (Canadian Press).—News of the death at Chicago of Patrick J. Hodgins, founder and director-general of the International Federation of Cosmopolitan Clubs, reached here to-day. A lawyer by profession, Mr. Hodgins said the organization grew from his first club to fifty in which he was the middle west of the continent, five in Canada.

AUGUST LATEST ELECTION DATE

Assurance Given By Premier B.C. Contest Will Be Before September 1

While no definite date has been set, August will be the latest month British Columbia electors will go to the polls to name members of the Legislature. Comments of A. M. Manson, K.C., in Vancouver that the election may not be held until September or October prompted an announcement by T. D. Pattullo, Opposition Leader, to-day that he has been assured by Premier Tomin that the election would be held before September 1.

"My colleague in the Legislature, Mr. Manson, is reported to have predicted that there will be no provincial election until September or October," Mr. Pattullo remarked. "It has been the usual practice for administrations to make appeal to the electorate before the legal and automatic expiration of the term of office of members of the Legislature. Some months ago Premier Tomin assured me that there would be an election before September 1, that being the date when the present parliament expires. I assume that this course will be pursued."

Don Mulcahy Wins Model Plane Title

Kenzie of Wells Air Transport, and Pilot Bill Holland of Canadian Airways, finally decided the winners of the Times model airplane competition, which was conducted by the Hyak Industries Limited in connection with the fair. The decisions were very difficult to make and Carter Guest congratulated all the contestants on their excellent showing and regretted that he could not give them all prizes. He pointed out the educational value of the modeling of these planes given to the youth of to-day and predicted that many of the boys showing their work in this competition would be the pilots of to-morrow.

COMPETITION KEEN

Excellent work was done in the classes grouped according to age and it was almost impossible to pick the winners. Here workmanship, closeness to detail and general finish counted, and while the planes were beautiful, no points were awarded for color.

The winners were as follows: Fourteen years and under sixteen—Winner, Leighton Manning, runner-up, Earl Foster; honorable mention, Clarence Knight, Ladysmith. Twelve years and under fourteen—Winner, Walter Wickson, runner-up, Frank Ward; honorable mention, Gee Wing King.

Ten years and under eleven—Winner, Bruce Cook, Ladysmith; runner-up, Kean Lee; honorable mention, Tony Rose and Sun Lee. Under ten years—Winner, Alfred Evans, Colquitz, and Raymond Knight, Ladysmith.

Special, best exhibit by a girl—Anna Clendenan. GREAT SUCCESS

The competition was a wonderful success, and a showing of over 150 models constructed and displayed—modelled planes augers well for the future of aviation. The Victoria Daily Times wishes to thank Mr. Carter Guest, who came over from Vancouver especially to officiate as judge, and the two well-known pilots who gave their time gratuitously.

The Hyak Industries who recently commenced operations in Victoria, have brought to Victoria and British Columbia new industry that is destined to play a big part in the lives of many of the boys. Flying models will shortly be brought out, and an ever increasing number of model scale models will add to the interest.

The finish of the competition will be the distribution of prizes at the Home Products Fair on Saturday afternoon by B. C. Nicholas, editor of the Times. All winners will receive handsome cups, while the runners-up will receive miniature cups. The prizes have all been donated by the Victoria Daily Times, Hyak Industries and Hoyle-Brown, the local distributors.

POSTER CONTEST

In a competition made particularly keen by the high grade entries of various schools, North Ward won first honors in the posters displayed at the Home Products Fair, results of the judging announced late yesterday.

The displays, shown at the west end of the Armories, have won warm commendation from all who have visited the fair. Not only have the young artists presented the events they intended to advertise distinctly, but they have combined in the plaques great

BOWSER DROPS CONSERVATIVES

Has Abandoned Party in Provincial Affairs, He Says at Penticton

Last Political Fight to Establish Non-party Government in British Columbia

Penticton, April 28.—J. W. Bowser, K.C., former Premier of British Columbia, is making his last political fight in an effort to establish non-party government in British Columbia and has definitely abandoned party in provincial affairs he intimated at a meeting here yesterday evening. To an audience of 300, Mr. Bowser recalled in outline his political record. Conditions had changed, party politics had proved inadequate and non-party government was essential, he said. A whispering campaign had been started by Liberals to show he was still a Tory, but that, as shown by his Liberal support, was absurd, he said.

"I am honest in this non-party move; it is my last fight. I don't want to fight another campaign. I won't go into another fight five years from now when I'm seventy," he declared. "I am going in now because conditions are so bad that all men, regardless of party, must join together to restore confidence in government. This will be the end of machine rule. I used to be a party to that system through circumstances and conditions, but I am through with it now. I am getting a little religious in my old age," he added jocularly.

IRRIGATION CHARGES

Irrigation charges are a large issue here, where the fruit growers of this area financed their operations almost without government aid. Mr. Bowser promised definitely the Penticton irrigation system would be included in his round-table conference to review the whole irrigation situation and the government's place in it.

Dr. G. A. B. Hall of Nanaimo handled the financial aspects of the present situation with a formidable array of figures.

DRAFTS BILL

Washington, April 28.—President Roosevelt and Mr. Helmer of France, together with their advisers, met shortly after 10 a.m. to-day in the White House for a final conference on the draft bill.

Rebates on Taxes Are Arranged

Canadian Press Ottawa, April 28.—Public works announced Thursday by Hon. E. N. Rhodes as amendments to his original budget proposals are retroactive to the day the budget came into effect, March 22.

The new tax on invert sugar and syrup, glucose and grape sugar came into effect yesterday.

This was explained by officials of the Department of National Revenue. Revenue collectors received their instructions as to the tax changes Thursday and began collecting the levy on glucose and invert sugar yesterday.

The reductions announced Thursday for beer, wine, spirits, malt products for brewing beer and a few other items. Persons who have paid the higher tax on these commodities since March 22 will be entitled to rebates.

FULL-TIME WORK FOR C.N.R. HEADS

Ottawa, April 28.—Hon. J. C. Elliott, former Minister of Public Works, sponsored an amendment to the government railway bill in the Commons to-day. It would stipulate the Canadian National trustees must give full-time service and hold no outside directorates.

Hon. R. J. Manion said it was the intention of the government to appoint full-time trustees.

N. H. Davis Tells Geneva Conference His Government Opposes Any Attempt to Weaken Proposals

Canadian Press and Associated Press Geneva, April 28.—The United States dramatically allied herself with Great Britain to-day at the World Disarmament Conference when Norman H. Davis announced the American delegation would oppose any attempt to weaken the draft arms convention prepared by the British.

The United States ambassador-at-large said he regarded the British draft treaty as a very valuable contribution and a definite step toward limitation of armaments.

FIRST STEP

He added the United States looked on it merely as the first step in disarmament, indicating others must follow until armaments are brought down to their proper level.

Captain Robert Eden, speaking for Great Britain, expressed deep appreciation of the generous terms in which the United States had welcomed the British project.

He added Britain would cordially co-operate with those who desired to go further in the reduction of armaments than was provided for in the convention.

GERMANY'S DEMANDS

Germany gave concrete expression to its demand for equality in armaments when its delegates to-day filed a series of amendments to the draft convention before the conference.

The indicated dissatisfaction with the size of the army accorded to Germany. Germany insisted it must get all the weapons of defence allocated to other nations.

Germany said German military organization must be adapted to insure safety of Germany against attack and that this security must be proportionately as strong as that of other nations.

This amendment was generally interpreted to mean Germany refused to accept an army of 200,000, as mentioned in the draft, while France sets 400,000, including 200,000 colonial forces, and Poland gets a total of 200,000.

Simultaneously Germany threw cold water on the French proposal for a uniform system of short-term service in armies on the European continent by declaring the time was not ripe to discuss uniformity. Germany suggested a permanent disarmament commission discuss that problem in the future.

MARTIAL LAW IN IOWA AREA

Governor Orders Troops on Guard After Attack Made By Mob on Judge

Associated Press Des Moines, Iowa, April 28.—Governor Clyde L. Haring to-day backed up his order for troops in Plymouth County, where a mob yesterday attacked a district court judge, with a proclamation declaring martial law in the county.

Terminating the attack on Judge C. E. Bradley, a vicious and criminal conspiracy and assault on a judge while in discharge of his official duties, endangering his life and threatening a complete breakdown of all law and order, Governor Haring authorized the troops to work beyond the borders of Plymouth County if necessary.

Earlier a battalion of the Iowa National Guard had been mustered for service at Le Mars, scene of the disturbance.

The Governor acted in response to a request from Sheriff Ralph Ruppey of Plymouth County. Mobilization of the battalion embraced three infantry companies and one machine-gun company.

HUNDRED IN CROWD

Le Mars, Iowa, April 28.—A crowd of more than 100 farmers late yesterday dragged District Judge Charles C. Bradley from his courtroom, slapped him around a mile from here, put a rope around his neck, choked him until he was only partly conscious, smeared grease on his face, and stole his trousers.

The abduction was carried out after the judge had refused to swear he would sign no more farm mortgage foreclosures.

Shortly after 4 p.m. the farmers entered the judge's courtroom to determine the constitutionality of two new laws relating to mortgage foreclosures.

The trouble started when the judge refused to sign the new laws, and the farmers dragged him out of the courtroom and to the street.

The men rose in reply to his demands and dragged him off the bench, but Judge Bradley, about sixty, defied the crowd and refused to swear he would sign no more farm mortgage foreclosures. He was then hustled from the courtroom. Many of the farmers were masked.

At the crossroads one of the farmers, after the judge had been dragged around the end of a rope, removed a hub cap from a nearby truck, partly filled with oil, and placed it on Judge Bradley's head. The oil and grease ran down his face as farmers threw dirt which stuck to the oil.

The farmers removed the judge's trousers and filled them with earth, then drove off. Several offered the judge a ride, but he refused. He was taken back to town later by a pastor's son.

"I'd rather not say," he replied in answer to queries as to whether he would seek prosecution of his abductors.

FRASER DRAGGED FOR MOTOR CAR

Canadian Press Vancouver, April 28.—Police have resumed their search for the automobile used by Mrs. Ian Griffiths, Lulu Island, who disappeared March 10, and whose body was found in the Fraser River near Marpole April 19.

Two headlights of an automobile of the same type as Mrs. Griffiths's were located this morning by Richmond police in dragging operations near the Marpole bridge.

Mrs. Griffiths left home in an automobile March 10 and a few days later was reported to the police as missing. Police immediately attempted to trace her through the car, but without result.

When the body was found it was thought she might have accidentally driven into the river, and dragging was started at all points where roads led to the river.

FAMILY IN DEATH PACT

Minnesota Man and Woman and Two Sons Die After Mother's Court Sentence

Associated Press St. Paul, April 28.—Rather than face what she had termed the "disgrace of serving a six-month term for contempt of federal court, Mrs. Genevieve A. Clark of Minneapolis, juror in the first Foshay mail fraud trial, sought refuge in a suicide pact with her husband and two sons.

Their bodies, crowded together in a small sedan, were found yesterday evening, three days after Mrs. Clark was to have appeared to begin her sentence in jail here. The discovery ended a search for the family that had extended over several northwestern states and parts of Canada.

Carbon monoxide gas, carried into the car by a rubber hose attached to the exhaust pipe, caused the deaths of the two boys, Rowland, ten, and Dean, seven. Her husband, Daniel D. Clark, had placed himself in the front seat after closing all the windows. The motor then was started.

Mrs. Clark was sentenced last Friday and released on her own recognizance to appear Monday afternoon. She was convicted of contempt for failing to obey her former employment by a Foshay enterprise and business transactions carried on by her husband with a Foshay firm.

During the trial of W. B. Foshay, H. H. Henley, and five associates on mail fraud charges, eleven jurors voted for conviction, but Mrs. Clark held out for acquittal and after a week of disagreement, the jury was discharged.

North Vancouver, April 28 (Canadian Press).—Notification from the Canadian Bank of Commerce that interest on district of North Vancouver bank overdraft had been reduced from 5 1/2 per cent to 5 1/4 per cent was received to-day by Commissioner Charles E. Tisdall. This reduction will mean a substantial saving to the municipality, the commissioner stated.

Minnesota Bandits Escaping With $2,000 Spray Streets With Machine Gun Fire

Madison, Minnesota, April 28.—Three residents were wounded and bank official slugged to-day by three gunmen who raided the Klein National Bank and fled with $2,000.

Spraying city streets with machine gun, rifle and pistol fire as they escaped, the bandits endangered the lives of at least twenty-five persons, firing point blank at a group of workmen back in the afternoon shooting promiscuously as they roared out of town.

DR. J. C. F. BOWN, EDMONTON, DIES

Canadian Press Edmonton, April 28.—Dr. J. C. F. Bown, seventy-seven, city solicitor of Edmonton for the last twenty-six years and president of the Alberta Law Society, died yesterday following a lengthy illness.

In January, 1928, Dr. Bown was elected head of the Alberta Law Society and was unanimously re-elected to office each year since.

He was born in Brantford, Ontario, in 1856. His father, John Hugh Bown, was elected to the House of Commons in 1867 as a Conservative member for North Brant in the first election after Confederation.

After graduation from the University of Toronto in 1879 with the degree of B.A., he studied law at Brantford and was admitted to the bar in Toronto in 1882.

BRITISH LOWER TRADE BARRIERS

By GEORGE HAMILTON
Ottawa Press Staff Writer

London, April 28.—Great Britain is hammering at the barriers to international trade. Trade pacts with Denmark and Germany arranged this week bring a measure of new hope to British coal, iron and steel industries. Under the agreement with the Argentine, British trade will be relieved of the strangling effects of exchange restrictions.

Details of the Argentine deal will not likely be disclosed until next week, but its general lines are reported to be: (1) A British loan of $10,000,000 to secure the release of British frozen assets in Argentina; (2) an assured market for the Argentine stockbreeders with an import quota for chilled beef, frozen beef, mutton and lamb—the quota not to fall more than 100 per cent below an agreed maximum; (3) Argentina to establish a tariff board and reduce duties over a wide field of British imports, including motor vehicles, agricultural machinery and textiles.

The agreement already concluded and those which are to follow are a part of the British policy to bring down the

HOME PRODUCTS FAIR A LESSON IN SELF-HELP

The exhibits on display at the Home Products Fair at the Amories are unusually comprehensive and diversified and as such they teach a practical lesson which should not be lost upon the patrons of the show. Both promoters and exhibitors are entitled to congratulation on the success of the exhibition and those who have not yet visited it should do so.

It is generally well known that this fair is held every year under the auspices of the Victoria Chamber of Commerce and its purpose requires no explanation. The fact remains, however, that this will not be attained unless there is a stern determination on the part of the purchasing public to increase its demand for locally-produced articles. Hundreds of commodities in daily use are manufactured in Victoria and district. They are in competition with similar commodities produced elsewhere in Canada or in other countries. It is not difficult to understand what industrial expansion would occur, what increase in the payroll of this community there would be if, say, twenty-five per cent of the money spent on imported articles were spent on the local products with which they compete. This is the kernel of the lesson this exhibition should be driving home to the public of Victoria and district.

It can be reasonably argued that if the Home Products Fair would impress our citizens with the fact that an improvement of business conditions in this community were largely in their own hands, it would pay to hold it three or four times a year instead of only once. The Chamber of Commerce has done its part and the exhibitors are doing theirs, and seem to do it better each year. It is now the duty of the public, both in its own and in the community's interests, to do its part, not only by going to the fair, but also by making a note of what is on display there, and thereafter patronizing local products.

The purchasing creed of the consumer should be Victoria first, British Columbia second, Canada third, the empire fourth, and foreign countries afterwards. It should be understood, however, that the adoption of this creed imposes an obligation on the producer as well as on the consumer. Price and quality are dominating factors. The producer must meet competition in both respects and keep his goods "in the window" all the time. He must persuade consumers that it is to their advantage in every way to buy his goods. It may not be too much to say that there are no doubt many who would willingly pay just a little more for the local product until increasing demand automatically brought the price down.

In any event, as already emphasized, the citizens of this community have it in their power to increase local business and local payrolls by following the simple purchasing creed we have set out. Only when there is more local trade and more money in circulation will it be possible, for example, to get relief from municipal and other forms of taxation.

THE COST OF THE LEAGUE INSIGNIFICANT IN COMPARISON

Speaking in behalf of the local branch of the League of Nations Society yesterday, Vice-Admiral S. R. Drury-Lowe effectively answered that small minority in this and other countries which continues to complain about the cost of maintaining the first organization for peace ever founded. He pointed out that the total annual cost of operating the League was £1,800,000, borne by fifty-seven nations, while the world was spending more than $900,000,000 annually on armaments. About $5,000,000,000, by the way, is the latest estimate of the money thus expended.

Another aspect of the relatively insignificant expense of the League was contained in the vice-admiral's statement that of every pound sterling raised in England fifteen shillings, or three-quarters, was used for the settlement of bills incurred by past wars, whereas one-quarter of a farthing, or one-eighth of a cent, was all that the British treasury had to find out of every pound of its annual tax collections for its share of the cost of the League of Nations.

The League of Nations has not been able to put an end to war. It fell down rather badly in connection with the dispute between China and Japan; but it has averted many clashes between nations since the end of the Great War which, had it not been for its intervention, might have developed into conflicts of a major scale. Moreover, its unspectacular achievements, notably its war against the narcotic drug traffic, are worth all the money which has been spent by the member states to date. The League is, after all, only a few years old—and the scoffers at its works are comparatively few.

CRUISING POPULARITY HAS BEEN BOON TO SHIPPING

Among the social changes of the last few years none has been more striking than the popularity of the cruising holiday, said Mr. E. Seymour Bell, of the White Star Line, speaking before the Manchester Scepticism Club recently.

In 1930, Mr. Bell said, there were sixty-eight cruises by sixteen vessels, and 24,000 people went on them. In 1931 there were eighty cruises by twenty-two vessels, and 30,000 people went on them. Last year there were 175 cruises, thirty-nine vessels, and 120,000 people, and this year 300 cruises had already been scheduled. He would forecast that almost 250,000 of the British public would go cruising this year.

Before 1932, we read further, only the fortunate few went cruising; but 1931 democratized cruising. The cost was brought down to the level of a pound a day, virtually the same as going to a seaside resort. Liners, particularly on the North Atlantic run, were suffering from the great trade depression. The people accustomed to traveling backwards and forwards on business found that business did not justify it.

The American wanting to "do" Europe, Mr. Bell proceeded, found he could not afford it; the English traveller, with his country off the gold standard, similarly could not afford to go to the New World for a holiday. Emigration had ceased. It was no "brain-wave" of an obscure clerk in a shipping office that they could start cruising; it was sheer common sense, the only way out.

Another thing cruising had done, the speaker observed, was to change the old idea that limited holidays to only a few months in the year. April and October holidays could no longer be looked upon with disfavor. The difficulty of arranging holidays not to dislocate business need no longer exist. On a cruise to the Mediterranean one could be as humanely certain of sunshine as of anything, even in the spring months and the dark days of autumn.

Boiled down to a few words, the shipping companies had to boost the sales of their services. "Bargain-sale cruises" evidently have been good investments in more ways than one.

TWO WORTHY CAUSES WHICH DESERVE LIBERAL SUPPORT

Under the auspices of the Gyro Club and in aid of the Children's Aid Society, the Little Theatre Association will present "Outward Bound" at the Shrine Auditorium to-night and to-morrow night, and it is to be hoped the entertainment will be liberally patronized on both occasions. The fine humanitarian work accomplished by the Children's Aid Society is fairly well known; but only those who are intimately associated with its activities understand the handicap which continually confronts the officials—a lean treasury. It is well known, too, that the inadequacy of the premises now occupied by the home necessarily limits the scope of the society's usefulness. Its mission is to care for underprivileged children and give them the comforts and guidance in their tender years that are denied them by force of circumstances for which, of course, they are in no wise responsible.

Another good cause for which a tag day is to be held to-morrow is that embraced by the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals. The name of the organization explains itself and instantly strikes a sympathetic chord. The fact that this movement in the interests of our dumb friends is of a world-wide nature speaks volumes for its right to generous support. Like all other good works, however, it must have funds and that is the object of to-morrow's street collection. It is pointed out, incidentally, that some peculiar ideas have got abroad as to the manner of the society's operations. It simply uses the money at its disposal to employ officials who, often under very difficult circumstances, trace cases of cruelty and warn the culprits, while repeated offences usually result in police court proceedings. The money is not spent on the animals; it merely helps to protect them in the manner described, and provides work for a few people who need it.

WHAT OTHER PAPERS SAY

KING SOLOMON DEAD
The London Free Press

King Solomon is dead. This does not sound like news, but it really is. The King Solomon who is dead was the king of the fighting Zulus of South Africa. What is more, like his great Jewish predecessor he was a man of many wives. He leaves behind to mourn him sixty-four widows.

King Solomon had the honor of being born on St. Helena, famous as the spot where Napoleon was exiled and died. His father rebelled against the British, and he, like Napoleon, was sent to St. Helena, where Solomon was born in 1891. In 1898 he returned to South Africa, and in 1918 General Botha appointed him as chief over the old Zulu tribes. His rule was uneventful and he lived quietly and peacefully with his sixty-four wives. His influence over the natives was wholesome. As for the Zulus, they are one of the oldest and most warlike of the South African tribes and for some 200 odd years, ever since the whites went to Africa, carried on intermittent warfare. The early Boers and the Zulus kept up almost continual warfare for fifty years. Cetewayo was the last great Zulu chief, but he was beaten after two battles and died as a result of wounds in 1884.

GREAT WILD LIFE SANCTUARY
Canada Week by Week

When Jasper National Park in Alberta, which has an area of 4,200 square miles, was set aside in 1907 by the government of Canada to meet the recreational requirements of the people and to serve as a refuge for the native fauna, great inroads had been made in the wild life by hunters. As a result of the establishment of sanctuary conditions the preservation of the different species of wild life indigenous to that region has been assured, and now hunters may feel confident of having an unfailing supply of game in districts adjacent to the park.

One of the chief attractions to visitors at the present time is the variety of wild life which may be seen along the park's highways and trails. The bear, moose, deer, bighorn sheep and mountain goat, while caribou may generally be sighted in the high open passes of some of the nearby mountains.

In recent years there has been a remarkable increase in the wild life of the park. It is estimated that the number of bighorn sheep in the Athabasca valley has doubled within the past few years. Rocky Mountain goat are numerous and are spreading to new ranges in the park, and elk, moose, deer and caribou are seen in large numbers. The elk, which had nearly been exterminated a few years ago, have increased to such an extent that now they are extending their range in many directions.

A THOUGHT

For I say unto you, That unto everyone which hath shall be given; and from him that hath not, even that he hath shall be taken away from him.—St. Luke xix 26.

Loose Ends

An extremely dull column on disagreeable subjects—among them politicians and the gentle art of swallowing yourself—a precious fiction of our times—and the human race.

By H.B.W.

SWALLOWS

A LARGE part of the time and the intellectual fibre of politicians the world over must be absorbed in the gentle art of swallowing themselves, in thinking up ways to do what they swore last week they would never do, without the public ever suspecting that they are doing it. I suppose, indeed, that the highest art of the politician is this ability to turn completely around and march backwards while appearing to be marching straight forward. That our politicians as a whole are extremely able, highly skilled in this difficult manoeuvre is shown by the public's complete lack of memory, its inability to forget what happened yesterday.

Offhand, I think of a few notable examples of this swallowing process. Canada and the United States vowed that they would never inflate their currency. Premier Bennett almost suffered a seizure at the very thought of such a thing. Now they propose to decrease the gold content of the dollar, which is precisely the same thing as inflation, and when they have done it they will congratulate themselves that they, at least, never tampered with sound money.

Canada would adopt a dole for the unemployed like poor broken-down old England. Now 1,300,000 Canadians are receiving "unemployment relief," which is in no sense a dole since it is called by another name, is provided out of borrowed money and will be paid by the next generation.

Canada would close its markets to the foreigner, "blast" its way into his. Now it is busy trying to sneak into the United States market against the tariff commission's objections to that. But it is in no sense a surrender or change of policy by us. It is a humiliating back-down on the part of the United States.

The Allied nations swore that they would make Germany pay for the war. But when all reparation payments ceased this was not a change of front. It was a plan to rehabilitate the Allied nations' commerce.

The government of British Columbia would never do a word in its debt obligations, would never repudiate a comma in its contracts. So it merely stopped paying money into its sinking funds and let the municipalities do the same thing.

But most choice of all was The Colist's announcement the other day that Premier Tomin, having declared six times that he would form a union government, would have to form a straight Conservative ministry instead. This said The Colist sublimely, was a step forward, not in any sense a retreat.

Some day a politician will arise and admit that he is usually mistaken and, when he has to change his mind, will just tell the public that he was wrong in the first place. Probably the public will throw him into the street, because it prefers to be fooled. But it might not. The experiment at least would be refreshing.

FICTION

ONE of the charming fictions which we love to maintain in this country is the notion that everyone, whatever his social or economic state, has an equal opportunity of health, which is much more important than money. A fellow who was cured of tuberculosis some years ago was telling me to-day just how absurd that notion is. Medical problems and suchlike are rather too dull even for this column, but I found the economic aspects of this matter, its relation to government, rather interesting. This fellow told me—and he has made a serious study of it and written a lot of good stuff on the subject—that there were about 5,000 people with tuberculosis in British Columbia. But with our present facilities we can treat only 500 of them properly. So 4,500 of them aren't going to be treated properly.

Whether you get treated or not depends mostly on your possession of money. Whether you get well depends largely on your purse. If you are particularly lucky, you may be one of the 300 odd who get into "sanatoria" but it's not likely. You are more likely to die. The oddest part of the story is that the best experts in the country devised a scheme for treating the disease on a broad scale, without any new hospitals, so that everyone had an equal chance. Instead of a few being cured and the rest left to luck. But, because it cost a little more money, a very little more, the government didn't take it up. This was remarkable finance, since the increase in the number of patients will cost the country far more in the long run. And with over a million Canadians on doles, with insufficient to feed them properly, we may expect a new crop of patients, who will cost us a pretty penny in a short time. If the state is going to assume any responsibility for health at all—and no one seems to dispute this obligation—our present arrangements are about the most extravagant that could be devised. And they are all based on a policy of strict economy.

FIT PEOPLE

NOW THAT British Columbia has undertaken to sterilize the insane and prevent them from propagating insane children, a Vancouver commentator says this should be only the beginning. Instead of merely seeking to a negative fashion to stop the production of unfit people, civilization, he says, must take positive action to produce fit ones. It must arrange for the mating of the most suitable persons, who will produce the best children. This is called the new science of eugenics in modern language, but it was advocated by Plato and others a couple of thousand years ago. Plato had it all worked out to a nicety. Under his arrangement, marriages would be so arranged that all the necessary classes of society would be produced just as they were required. Children would be bred to the business of plumbing, writing and law-making from parents best suited to produce plumbers, writers and law-makers.

Of course Plato got nowhere with his idea because he had left out one detail which proved important. He had forgotten all about human nature. It didn't matter much then, life being simple in Athens and its suburbs, and people went on having babies without a clear idea whether they were to be kings or garbage collectors. Up to recent times this cheerful slipshod arrangement has been satisfactory. Statistics show that the world is growing progressively insane until within a century, at the present rate, a minority of us (you and I and a few others) will be maintaining the great bulk of the population in a state of barbarism. A little lunacy doesn't matter a great deal but in a state of mechanical civilization it is very dangerous. Unless we breed a race capable of supporting this form of civilization, it will be wrecked as a madman wrecks an automobile.

So, under a new name Plato's notion is coming back. We are starting it in a feeble fashion by sterilizing the insane, but the present condition of the world suggests that we are a long way from producing a race physically and mentally able to support this form of civilization. Inevitably the scientists and economists everywhere will want to go further. They will want to stop unsatisfactory marriages and then they will insist on arranging satisfactory ones. As the delicacy and complexity of machinery and economic increase, everybody's domestic affairs will be in the hands of the state. The greater the improvement in mechanism, the less the liberty of the individual. The real fact is that few of us (probably only you and I) are fit to live in this modern world. The eugenic scientists' idea is to change us rather than the world. I am for staying as we are and changing the world. It will be more comfortable.

Weather Forecast—Victoria and Victoria to-night with light frosts Wednesday, generally fair, with light to moderate northerly winds.

Nearly four days later R.M.S. Maroma, of the Canadian-Australian line, leaves the outer wharf this evening for Sydney. The breaking of a casting on the main pump just after the liner's lines had been cast off on Friday night necessitated the long delay for repairs, which have taken longer than was at first anticipated.

Among the recent visitors to Spanish Arm was J. Fairall of Victoria West. He reports excellent sport. Before noon he caught eight crabs, two spring salmon and one steelhead, all off the Indian reserve.

London, April 28.—The Canadian customs surcharge and proposal to tax outside holders of Canadian bonds were under fire in the Commons yesterday and two cabinet ministers were drawn into the 'short but sharp' exchange with Col. J. C. Wedgwood, Independent Labor member.

Col. Wedgwood described the bond tax proposal as a "disastrous precedent which may be followed in other dominions," pointing out it applied equally to Britain as well as foreign bondholders. He called the Canadian customs surcharge imposed on account of the pound's depreciation an "unbrotherly attitude."

Chancellor of the Exchequer Neville Chamberlain refused to be drawn, saying he would not consider any representations to the Dominion Government regarding the bond tax until he had studied the text of the proposal.

Mr. Hon. J. H. Thomas, Secretary for the Dominions, dealt with the attack on the customs surcharge. Asked by Col. Wedgwood "how long is this unbrotherly attitude toward British trade going on, considering other countries now off gold are our competitors," the minister replied it would be very difficult to answer "that very comradely question." The ally aroused laughter.

Col. Wedgwood pointed out the United States had gone off gold and their dollar had been depreciated, and he wanted to know why the Canadian customs surcharge was not therefore applied equally to American goods.

Mr. Thomas replied the question could not arise because the United States dollar still stood higher than Canada's.

THE BIG SIX

Another new leader, Fred Schulte, of Washington, appeared at the head of the American League batting parade yesterday, as he outdid both Johnny Hodapp, former leader, and Jimmy Foxe. Schulte lifted his average to .404 with two hits in four times up, while Hodapp and Foxe got one hit apiece and lost ground. Johnny Frederick improved his place at the top of the National League and the Big Six by making two hits in three attempts for a gain of 27 points.

ON SOUTHERN HONEYMOON

Mrs. Thomas Clarke Moulds, formerly Miss Renee Glass, whose marriage was solemnized at St. John's Church Wednesday evening.

QUIET WEDDING AT CATHEDRAL

Miss Florence Beatrice Porter
Bride To-day of Andrew
L. B. Alexander

"Piped in" After Ceremony:
Honeymoon in Chicago

Christ Church Cathedral was the scene of a quiet wedding to-day at high noon when, in the presence of intimate friends and relatives only, Rev. Rev. C. S. Qualtrough, of Columbia, united in marriage Florence Beatrice, third daughter of the late Robert J. Porter and of Mrs. Porter, 419 Superior Street, to Andrew Linton Brownlie Alexander, only son of Mr. and Mrs. John B. Alexander, St. David Street, Oak Bay.

The bride was an attractive figure in her model gown of beige flat crepe, fashioned on long lines and combined with crepe in the new Elizabethan fashion. With it she wore a smart turban hat of French crocheted straw and carried a beautiful bouquet of Columbia roses and lily of the valley, with which was incorporated several sprays of white heather, sent to the bride by Major Ian St. Clair, to bring her "luck." There were no attendants.

After the ceremony the bridal couple, accompanied by a few intimate friends and relatives, returned to the home of the bride's mother, where Capt. C. R. Wilson, an old friend of the family, wearing the kilts of the original Gordon Highlanders, with which he went overseas, "piped" them in the strains of the Scottish air "The Road to the Isles."

In tribute to the Scottish heritage of the bride and bridegroom, Mrs. Porter, handsomely gowned in black georgette with hat to match, assisted the young people in receiving their guests. Luncheon was served from a table attractively decorated with mauve sweet peas and yellow daisies, the wedding cake occupying a place of honor.

Later Mr. and Mrs. Alexander left for a honeymoon trip to Chicago, the bride traveling in a smart tulle suit of Havana brown, with hat and accessories en suite. On their return they will reside in Victoria. The young couple were the recipients of many beautiful gifts.

CLUB WILL HEAR "GLACIER FIRES"

Rev. Father Bernard Hubbard, S.J., the famous "glacier priest" will be heard by the Women's Canadian Club at its meeting Tuesday afternoon at 2:45 o'clock at the Empress Hotel on the subject, "The Moon Craters of Alaska." Father Hubbard is renowned as an explorer of the glaciers of Alaska and his address promises to be most fascinating. "Little Pearl" Trumpet, winner of the Canadian Club cup at the recent Musical Festival, will play several piano solos.

General Sir Percy and Lady Lake of Victoria, who left for England a short time ago, are sailing on the Duchess of Athol to-morrow from Montreal. They have been visiting in Winnipeg and Toronto en route east, and will remain in England for the summer months.

Master Herridge One-year Old

Washington, April 28.—Premier Bennett will shed the worries of state on Saturday to attend the birthday party of his nephew, Master "Dick" Herridge, who will be one year old on Saturday and will celebrate with a party in the Canadian legation. Mrs. W. D. Herridge, wife of the Canadian Minister to the United States, is a sister of Mr. Bennett.

HOUSE CLEANING

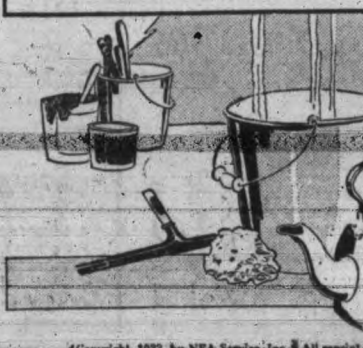

By HELEN WELSHIMER

POUSHING windows, scrubbing floors, Hanging the rugs on lines outdoors, Washing the tables, painting chairs, Making new curtains, dusting stairs.

DRAPING old awnings, placing swings, House cleaning means so many things; Bulbs growing fatter, pansies, pinks, Peonies, roses taking drinks.

OUT of the sky... peas, beans and corn, Showing green banners, birds new-born; I shall send off in a ragman's cart Cluttering fragments from my heart.

TAG ends of dreams, a rain-dimmed moon, Somebody's laugh, one day last June; House cleaning time should mean much more Than rugs clean-laid on a polished floor.

News of Clubwomen

Daughters of St. George—Victoria Lodge No. 83 Daughters of St. George will hold its regular meeting in the S.O.E. Hall Wednesday evening 7:30 p.m., when all members are asked to be on time for drill practice before opening of the lodge. A rummage sale will be held Saturday, May 6, at 802 Johnson Street, below Government Street. Members are asked to leave donations on Friday afternoon at store or telephone 4 493.

Esquimaux V.P.S.—The Young People's Society of the Esquimaux United Church held their regular meeting in the schoolroom. A letter was read concerning the "Sun of My Soul." The roll call and minutes of the previous meeting then followed. The meeting for the following week will take the form of a beach party in charge of Mr. Hughes. The society accepted the invitation to a social on May 1 at the Metropolitan. A letter was read concerning the "Grand Youth Rally" at the Metropolitan Church. The young people plan to start assembling the Sunday school rooms on May 15. Cecil Davies gave a very interesting talk on the "Oxford Group Movement."

St. Columba W.A.—The regular monthly meeting of St. Columba W.A. was held on Monday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Sanford, Grange Road, with a good attendance. Two new members being welcomed to the branch. The amount raised by "silent" money during Lent proved welcome addition to the funds, and thanks are tendered to all who helped in this direction. Reports were handed in by the various secretaries, and a most interesting letter read from Helen Cropp, prayer-partner for the branch. Various activities were discussed for the future, and will be definitely announced at the next Dorcas meeting, which will be held at the home of Mrs. Deane Cox, Burnside Road, on May 8.

For the first time in its history, the Friendly Help Association will hold a silver tea in aid of its funds on Saturday, May 6, Mrs. W. Lloyd Morgan having placed her home, "The Priory," Fernbert Road, at its disposal for the afternoon. The date was originally set for May 3, but has been changed in order to avoid conflicting with the "Y" tea on that date.

It is hoped, by means of the tea, to raise funds for the purchase of clothes for children. In some families the need is so desperate that the children will have to remain away from school unless more shoes, more pants or trousers and sweaters for the boys, more dresses and underwear for the girls, are made available within the next week or so.

The affair is being held under the patronage of Mrs. J. W. Fordham Johnson, Mayor and Mrs. Leeming, and members of the City Council and their wives.

Ann Harding Tells Reporters As She Accompanies Actor to Havana

Los Angeles, April 28 (Associated Press).—Protesting against any suggestion of an elopement or even contemplated marriage, Ann Harding, actress, left here yesterday evening on the same plane with Alexander Kirkland, actor, bound for Havana.

Mrs. Harding, secretary of the actress, accompanied them. "Does this mean an elopement?" was one of the first questions put to the blonde actress as she walked through a rain toward the airplane which was delayed nearly ten minutes while she answered questions.

"Oh, my no; please don't print anything like that," she replied. "It's a shame," broke in Kirkland, "that people can't go where they want to and have a minute to themselves."

"I'm going to Havana on a little vacation to see friends," the actress added. "Marriage is absurd."

Your Baby and Mine

By MYRTLE MEYER ELDRED

LET BABY ESTABLISH OWN HOURS FOR NIGHT FEEDING

The baby's disposition to sleep through the night from 10 p.m. until 6 a.m. is welcomed by the mother with mixed emotions. She is happy to have an uninterrupted sleep and worried for fear baby will suffer because of this long interval without sustenance. Her fears should be put to rest. If baby does sleep without a feeding, it is because his well-nourished little body demands none.

NEEDS IT ALL

A baby who will sleep without waking from 10 p.m. until 6 a.m.
should be allowed to do so. The bottle baby may have this fifth or sixth bottle divided evenly among his daytime feedings. Instead of discarding the feeding because baby does not wake to consume it, recognize that baby needs all of his formula and if he does not get it in the night time bottles, he should have it during the day. If the formula is too large for baby to take comfortably, reduce the water content of the whole formula
so that it is well within the limits.

We must, of course, assume that the formula was a good one in the beginning and was figured to provide baby with enough milk, water, and sugar for his nutritional needs.

THE NURSING PROBLEM

The breast-fed baby is often a more complicated problem. He tends to wake often to be fed at night. It is advisable for the breast-fed baby to be offered both breasts at the 6 p.m.
and 10 p.m. nursings so that he will be encouraged to sleep for the rest of the night.

It is the baby of six or seven months of age who quickly advertises his dissatisfaction with his breast feeding by developing the habit of waking two or three times during the night to be fed. He does not need more milk feedings, but more food in the daytime. Weaning should be instituted no matter with what arguments the mother may try to convince herself that she is still a successful nurse.

Even from an early age it is wise to let the baby establish his own night feeding hours by allowing him to sleep as long as he will after 6 p.m. Under this programme it may easily happen that from earliest infancy baby will wake only once for a night feeding.
Such a programme is good for baby and exceedingly desirable for his hard-working and tired young mother.

DRAMA JUDGING IS DIFFICULT

Says Adjudicator in Dominion Festival, as Standard of Plays So High

OTTAWA, April 27 (by Ray Brown, Canadian Press Staff Writer).—The standard of plays is so extraordinarily high the task of judging becomes more and more difficult. Rupert Harvey, adjudicator in the Dominion Drama Festival, told the audience which fanned the Little Theatre here yesterday evening. It was the fourth night of the festival, and groups from Sackville, N.B., Toronto and Hamilton faced the footlights in competition for the Beesborough trophy and amateur dramatic supremacy in Canada.
Criticism in the adjudicator was severe in respect to at least two of the presentations. The first number, "The Valiant," by Holworthy Hall and Robert Middlemass, and presented by Robert Middlemass, revealed a lack of technical knowledge of conditions prevailing in the United States penal institutions, declared Mr. Harvey.
Hart House Players, Toronto, followed with a production of James Masefield's play, "The Campfire Wonder." Again grim tragedy stalked across the stage as this drama of Gloucestershire peasant life in Puritan times, was unfolded. The play was extraordinarily well produced, but the producer completely misread the part of the person," said Mr. Harvey.
The adjudicator found the interpretation remarkably true to the Gloucestershire and the timonero most excellently created and played.

Members of the Players' Guild of Hamilton "suffered from a little insecurity" in their presentation of "Fanny Free" by Stanley Houghton, said Mr. Harvey. This play, billed as a fantastic comedy in one act, dealt with the meeting of a runaway wife and husband at a hotel, each being accompanied by a companion of the opposite sex. It is a frothy piece of sophisticated fooling, but Mr. Harvey thought that the Hamilton players lacked sophistication. "They were rather too innocent," he said, and he added that the members of the cast were too young.

Sister MARY'S KITCHEN

CHILDREN'S DISLIKES.

As children reach the age of eight or nine they sometimes develop troublesome likes and dislikes for food. There are several reasons for this and one in particular can be laid to their elders'— their mothers. Discussions about food by older persons may do much to influence young tastes. Consequently opinions of grown-ups regarding the palatability of various foods should be carefully
"guarded" in the presence of juniors.
At this age, too, mothers often relax
the constant supervision of their children's diet, and the children are allowed to eat about what they please with the result of a poorly balanced dietary.

It is not at all difficult to plan
menus for children from eight to ten.
They enjoy good food and may be allowed a large variety. Most of the regulation adult meals that are well balanced and sensible are suitable for children.

DON'T ALLOW "PICKING"
One of the best food habits to establish early, if the meals are well balanced and well cooked, is that of eating some of every food served. Most of the amount is very small, the rule should be firmly enforced, because this habit makes for a balanced diet and develops a broader taste in later years.
The rule of a quart of milk a day continues to hold, but some of it may be used in cream soups, creamed vegetables, desserts and beverages. Tea or coffee should not be permitted until the "years of discretion." Meat, fish, eggs, raw and cooked vegetables, raw and cooked fruits, cereals and simple desserts can be served in great abundant and variety.

REMEMBER YOUR CALORIES
While it is of utmost importance that vitamins and minerals be supplied in abundance, the caloric value of foods must not be overlooked. The amount of food a child needs at this age has been estimated at between 1,700 and 2,000 calories a day. The protein calories should be between 10 and 15 per cent of the whole amount.
A working knowledge of the caloric value of common foods is valuable.
The ordinary serving of a number of foods yields 100 calories. This makes it easy to calculate the approximate number of calories in the whole day's diet.
When the diet is well balanced the distribution of the calories is sure to be suitable. Meat, fish or egg once a day a quart of milk, plenty of vegetables and fruits, cereals and bread and butter with simple cookies and puddings—such foods insure a wholesome, nourishing diet.

Breakfast: Stewed rhubarb, cereal, cream, broiled veal, bread
crumb pancakes, milk, coffee.
Luncheon: Stuffed eel with cheese sauce, rye bread and butter, fifteen-minute sponge cake with strawberry sauce, milk, tea.
Dinner: Slice of ham baked in milk—baked potatoes, steamed spinach, cabbage and raisin salad, custard pie with apricot meringue,
milk, coffee.

MARRIED FOR FORTY YEARS

Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Cameron Celebrate Wedding Anniversary With "At Home"

Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Cameron of "Rose-boro," Moss Street, yesterday celebrated the fortieth anniversary of their wedding, which took place on April 27, 1893, at Carlsbad, New Mexico, where
Mrs. Cameron's father, the late Judge Freeman, lived for some years while he served as associate justice of the Supreme Court of New Mexico.

The well-known couple were the recipients of many congratulations and good wishes, among the numerous beautiful flowers received being a handsome basket of roses, tulips and anthurium from the Victoria Musical Art Society, of which Mrs. Cameron is honorary president. The Y.M.C.A. Ladies' Auxiliary expressed its felicitations to an active member with a charming message, greeting accompanied by a beautiful silver candy dish.

In celebration of the happy occasion,
Mr. and Mrs. Cameron were at home this afternoon and evening, the reception rooms being most attractively arranged with masses of spring flowers.

TAXATION IS NO SOLUTION

Leon J. Ladner Tells Conservative Women in Discussion of Economic Crisis

Governments cannot save the finances of the country by increased taxation, declared Leon J. Ladner, R.C., former federal member for Vancouver South, in an address before the Conservative Women's Association yesterday evening at its headquarters in the Campbell Building, the president, Mrs.
M. J. Roberts, being in the chair.
Reginald Hayward, M.P.P., introduced the speaker.

After reviewing the public debt of Canada, including federal, provincial and municipal, Mr. Ladner declared there was only one salvation for work and business, and that was increased commodity prices. It required international co-operation to bring this about.
Economic rather than political problems claimed the attention of Canadian people at the present time, he thought.
Post-war problems and tariff restrictions had disrupted national and international trade. When the Bennett government came into power it found a serious and unfavorable balance of trade, with every indication that unless something was done to rectify things, the condition would grow tremendously, bringing, as a result, heavy depreciation of the Canadian dollar, and a corresponding heavy premium to meet Canada's heavy obligations to the United States.

To meet the situation Canada had raised her tariffs in an effort to balance her trade, a move which had been successful, according to the speaker.
"We hear much about inflation. No man can carry out inflation with impunity. Germany crucified herself on the altar of inflation, and poverty and misery are now seen there on every hand, as I know from witnessing it recently when traveling from Cologne up the Rhine. With commodity prices and wages down, with interest on money up, with lessening production and declining profits, governments cannot save the finances of the country by increased taxation," Mr. Ladner said.

Story Makes Queen Laugh

Reuter's Special To The Victoria Times
London.—This is a story which made the Queen laugh when she visited a Scottish military exhibition at the gal-eries of the Royal Scottish Society of British Artists.

It was told to her by the Duke of Atholl.

He said:
"In Victorian days the men of the 71st Regiment wore long canvas coverings over their legs. Underneath were trousers of brilliant hue."
"Wimbledon was then a favorite place for military reviews, and there the regiment paraded one day in full dress uniform. The spectators were largely young Victorian ladies, complete with bustles and parasols."
"The soldiers came to a halt. Then a fierce command rang out: 'Remove trousers!' Instantly every parol was raised on high, and every Victorian back was turned, as the soldiers removed their harmless canvas coverings."

Nanaimo Women Hear Professor

April 27.—The Nanaimo Women's Canadian Club were addressed by Professor Drummond, Thursday, his subject being, "Is Capitalism Running Down?" Following the address, Miss Muscroft entertained the ladies with a piano recital. Mrs. T. Spencer gave a report of the organization meeting held at Qualicum recently.
The following were received into the club membership: Mesdames W. Brown, W. Manson and Russell.

There are no national holidays in observed nationally because several states declare them legal holidays.

during the afternoon to tender their felicitations and good wishes, and in the evening, nearly one hundred friends were present and dancing was enjoyed to the strains of a three-piece orchestra. Among the guests were several old friends who had attended similar wedding celebrations of Mr.
and Mrs. Cameron ten and twenty years ago.

In the dining-room, where tea was served in the afternoon and supper in the evening, the table and buffet were artistically decorated with pale mauve sweet peas and tall gold tapers.

THAT "LIKE THE DICKENS" FEELING IS LIVER

Wake Up Your Liver Bile.
Feel Fit. You Needn't use
Calomel To Do It.

It's your liver, failing to pour out the vital two pounds of bile, daily, into your bowels, that makes you feel as if off-colour.
Lack of bile means poor digestion. Food stays too long in your bowels and decays. Your system is poisoned. You go through the misery of gas, bloating, pain, heartburn. You have a dark brown sallowish tinge in your mouth and bad breath. Your skin's unhealthy and often your head aches. Your whole system seems out of kilter.
How can you reasonably expect to clear up a condition like this by merely taking salts, mineral water, oil, laxative candy or claying gum, or roughage? These only move the bowels, and that's not enough. You must wake up your liver bile.
Avoid salines (mercury). Take Carter's Little Liver Pills. They're purely vegetable, gentle, sure and safe. They'll make you feel a hundred per cent better in a very short time.
Don't waste your money on substitutes. Be definite. Ask for Carter's by name—and get them! Look for the name, Carter's, on the label and the 50c and all druggists.

held on Tuesday, May 2, in staff head-

A Novel by

H. LAWRENCE PHILLIPS

Author of "Cap'n Benny" and "A Friendless Millionaire"

"Come along while the agent is not. I've lost time enough as it is. As we go along I will point out one or two things that I noticed, and as we have the advantage of daylight we can go over them more thoroughly."

He was as good as his word, and showed all his discoveries to Mitter. But daylight revealed no more than might have been seen in the dark. The agent and Mitter were saying, "And now for the car." Then both men checked themselves in amazement, for the car had gone!

CHAPTER XIII

One of his colleagues at the "Yard" in discussing Mitter, said, "He's a funny fellow; the more exciting things get, the more silent he becomes. When other men are set raging he shuts up like an oyster, and you can't get anything out of him."

The observation was, within its limits, just. The disappearance of the car was a blow to the detective's pride. He felt that he had been neglectful in not getting it to a place of safety at once, and blamed himself for the oversight, though under the circumstances he was hardly to blame for what had happened—no man would have acted differently. Yet, a severe judge of himself as well as others in professional matters, he felt that he had been guilty of an oversight.

That evidence of substantial worth had been spirited away was a great blow, but its disappearance suggested a state of things that had never entered into the consideration of his perplexing problems. It meant that his actions, and those of his colleagues, were being acted upon by the criminal or criminals. How else explain matters?

If the position of the car had been known before its discovery by Troate, and if its evidence had been considered so great as to risk its removal, why had it not taken place before? Its removal at that particular time argued close espionage of his movements, or else an act of either deliberate treachery or fatal weakness on the part of one of those associated with him. Who was it?

The Inspector he dismissed at once—his behavior at the discovery, independent of the doctor, acquitted him. It lay between Birks and Troate if there had been a leakage of news. He determined to put them through a rigorous examination as soon as possible.

What was the evidence afforded by the car that it had been taken off? He had gone over it with a fair amount of care, and was persuaded that he knew all that it had to tell. If another explanation was necessary, what was it? Suddenly there came to his mind a vision of the state of the rooms at the "Lindens." Was it to be linked with that? Was it a part of a thorough search for something of value, and that something a diamond necklace? His eyes began to gleam with excitement—perhaps the disappearance of a clue in the shape of the car might provide a greater and more tangible one.

The silence of Mitter during this quest, dismissing everything else from his mind but the matter in hand, and heedless of the somewhat futile comments the Inspector was trying to make in his punning up of the question of Mitter's suicide or murder.

The track from where it was entered by the gate made a circular sweep, and the traces of the car led the two men farther along the way, for it was very evident that it had not been turned; the broken bushes, and here and there the marks of the tyres, made it plain that they were proceeding in the right direction. Before long they saw another gate which led on to a common thickly grown over with gorse, through which a footpath led, and it was very evident that the car had been driven along that way.

"Whoever lifted that car had a nerve!" exclaimed Ritter. "I suppose he drove more or less in the dark, and how he avoided a puncture I don't know."

Mitter stopped for a moment. "If we hadn't turned off through the gate and followed the path which took us to the car, but followed straight up the drive, where should we have got?" he asked.

His colleague shook his head. "I haven't local knowledge enough to answer that question," he declared; "you had better ask Birks. It's evident where this path leads us—it goes into the road between Culcombe and Hirschman. He could either get into the main road to Fromham, through the village, or go over the hill, if he didn't mind opening a lot of gates."

"I wonder if we shall be lucky enough to find out. I think he came through the village, for I fancy that the car we heard pass was the one we are after. But we shall soon know, there's the gate into the road."

"Yes, and he must be a pretty cool hand; he has evidently stopped to fasten it again. See?"

The Inspector was right, and so was Mitter, for the gate had been carefully closed and the car had left the marks of its turn towards the village. "That's that!" observed Mitter. "Now, the first thing to be done is to get circulated to all stations a description of the car and the numbers. I have a note both of the numbers here and of the other plate I found in the car. Can you get on with that straight away, and come back to the 'Lindens'?"

"I want a council of war and to decide what further steps to take. Meanwhile, I will have Birks on the carpet for leaving his post."

Ritter made no demur, but left Mitter on the road to the "Lindens," and pursued a thoughtful way to the house. He found Birks, looking rather tired, at his post, and feeling a pang of pity for his condition, was ready to deal leniently with him. However, Birks, though pleading guilty to having left his charge—he could do nothing else—declared that he had only just gone to the house as Mitter arrived.

mental process was, his friend at the "Yard" would have said, characteristic; but, contrasted with the behavior of Ritter, appeared cold blooded. The Inspector was almost foaming.

"A pretty pair of mugs we shall be thought in our handling of this case," he exclaimed, "to let the bus be carried off, under our noses, as to speak, it will make us the laughing stock of the force. I wish I could lay my hands on the rascal that did it, that's all. Now on earth did he get away with it?"

Busy with his thoughts, Mitter did not appear to notice the question, and Ritter repeated angrily—

"How did he get away with it? How was it done?"

His companion roused himself to his present duties.

"That we must find out," he replied; "but first I want you to verify with me one or two matters. Though suicide has been more or less ruled out by what the doctor has said, we'll have a look round once more at the position in which we found the body, and the distance of the pistol from the hand. You will have noticed, by-the-by, that my pegs have not been disturbed."

"Well, what about it?" growled Ritter.

"The fact has in it a suggestion, I think," replied Mitter dryly. "We found it," said Ritter in the same grumbling tones.

"My dear fellow, a pistol doesn't lend itself to rolling. Now, I'll tell you something else. We left the weapon just upon by the criminal or criminals. How else explain matters?"

If the position of the car had been known before its discovery by Troate, and if its evidence had been considered so great as to risk its removal, why had it not taken place before? Its removal at that particular time argued close espionage of his movements, or else an act of either deliberate treachery or fatal weakness on the part of one of those associated with him. Who was it?

The Inspector he dismissed at once—his behavior at the discovery, independent of the doctor, acquitted him. It lay between Birks and Troate if there had been a leakage of news. He determined to put them through a rigorous examination as soon as possible.

from school, Uncle Wiggily said:

"Come out in the garage with me, Bunty, and I will teach you how to laugh at thunder storms."

"Is there a thunder storm out in the garage?" asked the orphan bunny.

"Not yet, but I am going to make one there," said Mr. Longears.

"I won't be afraid of any thunder storm that you make in the garage if you are with me," Bunty said. "Come on, Uncle Wiggily."

It was dark in the garage when the door were closed. Bunty kept hold of Uncle Wiggily's paw for a moment and then he said:

"Now stand over in the corner, Bunty, and look and listen." So Bunty stood in the corner and looked and listened and Uncle Wiggily said:

"You aren't afraid of a flashlight, are you, Bunty?"

"No, of course I'm not," Bunty answered. "I often play with your flashlight that you keep at the head of your bed."

"Well, then," said Mr. Longears, "just think that the glaring lightning of a thunder storm is nothing but a big flashlight, like this, and you won't be afraid." As he said this, Uncle Wiggily switched on and off his flashlight, making it look as if there were a thunderstorm in the garage. Faster and faster Uncle Wiggily made the pretend lightning from the electric torch in his paw.

All of a sudden Bunty began to laugh. "What are you laughing at?" Mr. Longears wanted to know.

"I'm laughing because your pink nose twinkles in such a funny way when you make the flashlight go," said the orphan rabbit. "Oh, it's so funny Uncle Wiggily! So funny! Ha! Ha! Ha!"

But Bunty laughed in a most jolly fashion.

"Well, this is very good," said Uncle Wiggily. "I am glad you can laugh at my make believe storm, Bunty."

"Oh, but I'm not so much afraid of the lightning, Uncle Wiggily," spoke Bunty. "It's the thunder that scares me."

"I'll show you how to laugh at thunder, too," said Mr. Longears. "How he did I'll tell you to-morrow night when the story will be about Bunty and the thunder."

C.C.F. TO ENTER ELECTION HERE

Col. Lyon and Ex-Reeve Pritchard Come to Launch Movement

own system. The British system was not entirely applicable because of the rights of provincial minorities and the vast distances to be covered.

He believed there was some popular misconception about licenses in this country. Radio receiving licenses were essentially not general taxation, but constituted a contract between the licensee and the government for service. Up to the institution of the Canadian commission there had been no service. The public must keep the right perspective in considering the matter.

Interchange of international programmes was becoming a routine custom. This in itself constituted a demand for centralized authority. He believed a public service system of broadcasting not only encouraged national consciousness, but was a fine medium of advertising throughout the world, a means of better understanding and a guarantee of national stability in times of emergency.

More than 800 persons took part at the City Temple yesterday evening in the formal launching of the co-operative Commonwealth Federation in Victoria.

Col. H. E. Lyon, organizer for the Federation in B.C., and W. A. Pritchard, former reeve of Burnaby, came over from Vancouver to take part in the meeting, along with T. Guy Sheppard, head of the People's Movement here, who is joining the federation.

The C.C.F. was announced, will enter candidates in Victoria at the coming provincial election.

Out of the chaos and panic resulting from the break-down of the present social system must come complete reconstruction in which politicians wedded to the old party systems are inherently incapable of participating intelligently, speakers said.

Mr. Pritchard declared the chances were slim for an early return to normal times. He pointed out that all the talk by people blaming the depression on the war debts had not been paid. Similarly, the depression could not be blamed upon reparations because reparations had not been lived up to under the Versailles Treaty.

"The depression was caused by the expansion of production that had eventually killed itself by the very process which gave it life," Pritchard went on. "There must be a change, but any old change will not do. It must be a change of men, but one that will bring about a guarantee that there will not be any danger for the future of mankind. Any return to conditions such as existed before 1929 would bring about another depression of even greater magnitude than the one through which the world is now passing."

"The stress and strain of the depression has altered the thinking process of the communities, but that change of thought, must be transferred from the superficial to the fundamental and the knowledge that is attained from day to day and from year to year, by one of an open mind, must be progressed and go forward into the world of reality."

Col. Lyon outlined the organization and platforms of the C.C.F.

Mr. Sheppard said that the people of Canada would have to do something to supplant the present system with one that would insure a lasting social well-being for the people.

V. R. Midgley was chairman.

DOLLAR AT PEAK VALUE

A bad place to measure value of the dollar is in money exchange markets. Among the best places, according to official business figures, is the sales record of almost any automobile concern. Analysis of various commodity prices, up to the first of the current year and covering a period of two decades, shows the highest purchasing value of the dollar for motor vehicles was recorded in November last. Average wholesale prices of many passenger cars for last year were even below the average for 1926, when values were considered to be good.

London's heaviest recorded rainfall was on June 16, 1917, when 450 tons to the acre fell at North Kensington.

Canadian Press

Vancouver, April 28—Broadcasting as an instrument of distribution is a natural monopoly best conducted under remote state control, declared Major W. E. Gladstone Murray, director of publications for the British Broadcasting Commission, in an address to the Canadian Club here yesterday.

Major Murray is a native British Columbian returning to this province after an absence of twenty-two years. His father, Paul Murray, who as a school teacher taught the sons of British Columbians, still lives at Maple Ridge, where the speaker was born.

The United States system, financed by advertising, was circumscribed by profit and loss considerations and the merit of competition was tending to disappear. In co-operative pattern, which might lead to a monopoly in private hands, he said.

The German system of direct state control made broadcasting an instrument of government propaganda and the prey of varying political fortunes.

The British system of administration by a public service board under remote state control, but not subject to government management or direction, had the advantage of freedom from partisan interference and absence of programmes sponsored by advertisers.

PROBLEMS DIFFER

What Age
Is the Age
To Marry?

Finds
Thirties
Perfect

The Tastes and Habits of the Very Young Are Too Unformed to Make Marriage Safe, While Those of the Very Old Are Too Rigid—Best Time to Marry Is in Thirties, When Tastes Have Jelled and Life Has Not Lost Its Glamour

A GREAT many people ask me when is the right age to marry. Boys and girls want to know if eighteen and nineteen are too young to marry. Middle-aged and elderly people want to know if sixty and seventy are too old to marry.

Of course, this is a question that cannot be answered definitely because the success of a marriage depends upon so many things besides age, yet at the same time age is, one of the most important factors in the success or failure of every marriage. Age and youth, for example, cannot mate happily. The shoulders of boys and girls are not strong enough to bear the matrimonial yoke, and the old are too rigid to adapt themselves to new ways of living and other personalities.

Statistics show that there are more divorces among young married couples than among older ones. There are many reasons for this. The first is, of course, that the tastes of a boy and girl are unformed and the person or the thing they are crazy about one year, they are tired of the next. They don't know what they are going to be themselves when they grow up. Still less do they know what sort of husband or wife they will want in later years. And so the life partners they pick out in their teens or early twenties are generally as distasteful to them in their maturity as it would be to live on the chocolate creams of which they could never get enough in their adolescence, or to wear the rah-rah clothes they once admired so much.

For another reason marriage, like everything else, has to be adequately financed in order to be a success. Few boys are born with a golden spoon in their mouths big enough to feed a family with. Practically none at twenty can earn enough on which to support a wife and, unfortunately, love's young dream has to be nourished on plenty of roast beef and potatoes, or else it perishes of inanition.

When the cupboard is empty and the rent overdue and their clothes are shabby and there is no money for any sort of pleasure or amusement or even decent living, romance peters out and the boy and girl husband and wife begin to fight and only too often wind up by parting and going back to mother.

Nature does its little bit, too, toward wrecking the very young marriage. For nothing is more fallacious than the idea that if a girl and boy marry they will grow into one. Almost always they grow apart instead of together, because one outgrows the other. One develops and the other stays put, and then you have one of the greatest tragedies of matrimony. A good man or woman united to a good woman or man with whom he or she has nothing in common. A living person tied to the corpse of a dead love and doomed to drag it about as long as he or she lives.

Nor are the very young able to adapt themselves to each other. They have not had long enough to learn how to give and take, nor acquired the art of handling others with gloves and gum-shoeing around other people's peccadilloes. Only time can make a diplomat, and marriage is the one place in the world where diplomacy is most needed.

Above all things, young people require playtime and being married does not alter this fact. It merely makes it disastrous. The boy and girl husband and wife want to dance. They want to get out of an evening. They want smart clothes. And if they are tied down with babies and bound by matrimonial fetters and have to spend their money for groceries and sterilized milk instead of good times, it results in philandering husbands and peevish wives, who resent being what they consider domestic martyrs, and makes homes that are places of discord and strife.

Of course, there are some young marriages that turn out happily, but they are rare as hen's teeth and few of us have ever seen one.

But if the very young take a long shot at happiness when they marry, so do the old, because it is not only our arteries that harden with age, it is our character. There comes a time when our opinions are as stiff as our knees, and we can no more change our little ways than we could turn a double somersault. To some this comes earlier than it does to others, but when one reaches the place in life where one can not get a different point of view on any subject and is sure that one is always right on every subject, and when one gets addicted to any particular diet and is all-fussed-up by any little change of habits, then one should avoid matrimony as purgatory.

And it is especially dangerous nowadays, nay fatal, for the elderly to marry out of their own-age class because never has the gulf between age and youth been so impassable as it is to-day. Practically everything that the younger generation does shocks the older generation and runs up its blood pressure, and every idea of the older generation bores the younger generation to tears and causes them to scoff. So either one who desires any happiness or companionship in marriage must marry some one whose birthdays coincide with their own.

The safest time to marry is around the thirties. Then the heart still beats high. Romance has not lost its glamour. Men's and women's tastes and habits are formed. They know what they want in life partners. Life has taught them maturity and forbearance. They are ready to settle down and put their heads and their hearts and their backs into making marriage a go.

And they generally succeed.

Exploring Australia

A NATIVE VILLAGE

"There are dozens of tribes of Blackfellows," our Australian pilot tells us, "and they are widely scattered over the central and northern parts of the continent. All told, there are supposed to be about 100,000 natives; but no one knows their exact number. They keep apart from the whites pretty well, and there is little trouble with them these days."

The natives go through a totem dance for us

You express a desire to see a native village. "I know of a village which isn't far from here," Mr. Brown replies, "but I want to tell you that you're lucky to be able to see it. Blackfellows do not have many settled villages. They are hunters, and move from place to place."

serve the huts hardly deserve the name. They consist chiefly of tree branches, rudely put together. The Australian makes friends with the headman of the village by giving him trinkets, and before long the natives perform a dance for us. It is a "totem dance," and honors animals to which these folk believe they are related.

"Blackfellows have strange customs of marriage," Mr. Brown remarks. "A young man is not supposed to marry any one but the granddaughter of his grandmother's brother!"

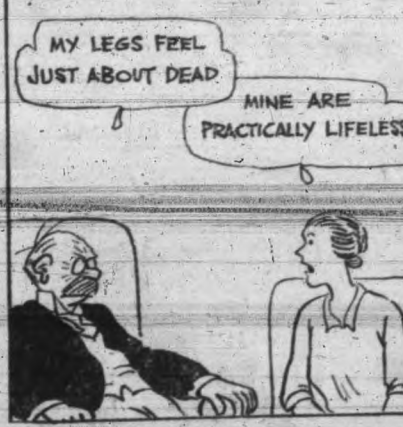

"What if his grandmother's brother doesn't have a grand-daughter?" I ask. "I don't know about that, but I think they have special rules to take care of such cases. In some of the other tribes, only first-born sons are allowed to marry."

We are sorry to leave the village without giving it further study, but our time in Australia is limited. Away we fly, westward over desert spaces, over gold fields, over groves of eucalyptus trees (these trees sometimes grow to a height of more than 300 feet) until we come to the city of Perth.

Reaching Perth, we feel that we are back in "civilization." The city contains more than 100,000 people, and I have a special reason for wanting to visit it. My grandfather, Henry Stringer, was the first white child born there. If he were living to-day, he would be ninety-five years old.

From Perth, we take a steamer back to our own land. Would you like to see another visit to Australia some day? (For "Travel" section in your scrapbook.) The leaflet called "Marvels of the GIRL OF 20 WHO WEIGHED 196 LBS.

Tells How She Took 50 lbs. Off

AND IMPROVED HER COMPLEXION

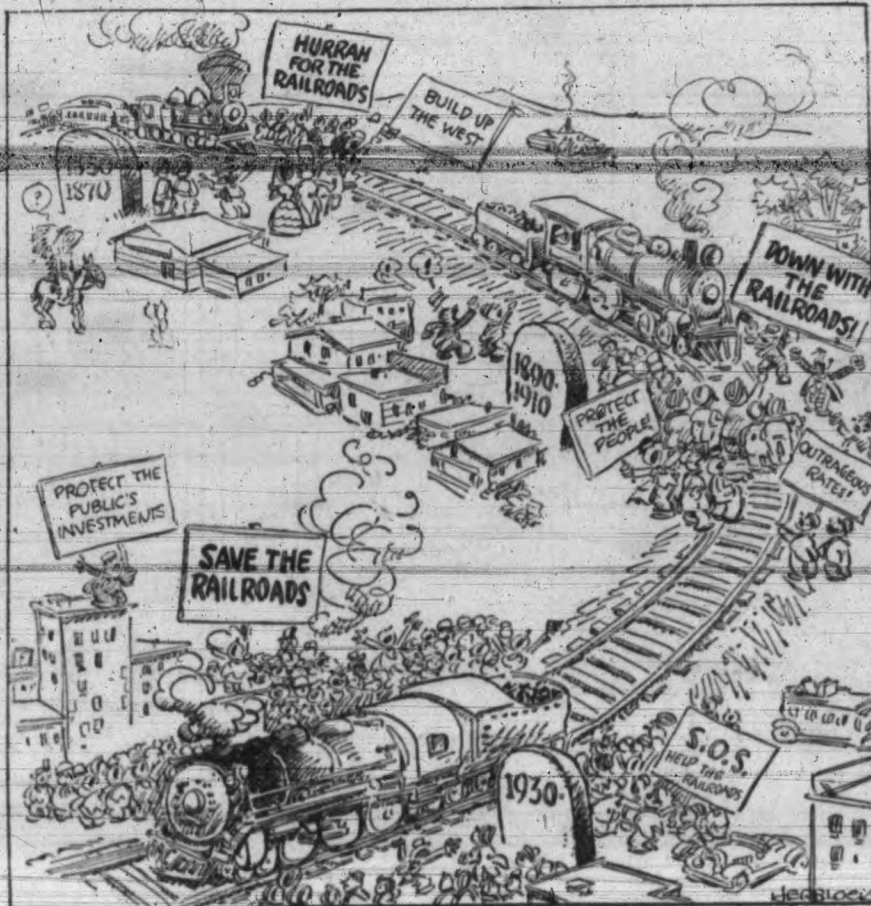

Are you the young lady of whom people are remarking, "How she is slimming out?" (That's a good-natured way of saying "getting fat.") If fat is stily and stealthily distorting your youthful figure, you should grapple with it at once. At 20 years of age this girl was in its toils. Read how she unburdened her young body of 20 superfluous pounds.

"About 12 months ago I was considerably overweight, being on the small side and weighing nearly 196 lbs. at 20 years of age. I was also troubled with headaches and pains in the small of the back, heaviness on rising, with a very poor complexion which broke out in spots every so often. Since taking Kruschen Salts all these conditions have disappeared. I have now gone down to normal weight, being 146 lbs., have a lovely complexion, and rise in the morning with no heaviness whatever." (Miss H. P.)

The formula of Kruschen represents the residual salts of those famous European Spas whose waters have been taken from time immemorial for excess fat. These salts ensure a perfectly natural clearance of undigested food substances and all excessive watery waste matter. When this wastage is allowed to accumulate, the body's chemistry is liable to store it up out of the way in the form of fatty tissue. Once Kruschen gets into your blood, disgusting fat commences to melt away from your ankles and calves; your double chin commences to vanish, hips become slender; you won't lose 4 or 5 lbs. a day or anything foolish like that, but almost before you realise it you find yourself a slimmer figure than you have always desired.

Kruschen Salts is obtainable at all Drug Stores at 45c. and 75c. per bottle.

Rapid Wells Loses First Place in Tanforan Race When Jockey Suspended

San Bruno, Calif., April 28.—In a wild sprint over the A. H. Spreckels course yesterday, climaxed by Lee Humphries hitting another jockey, H. Bagur, over the head with his whip, Proud Hills moved into first place when Rapid Wells was disqualified.

Bagur nosed Rapid Wells over the line first after repeatedly bumping Proud Hills. Humphries' mount, Humphries became so irked he finally whacked Bagur over the head. The judges disqualified Rapid Wells and suspended Bagur for ten days, meanwhile indicating Humphries was justified.

Lady Rial was second and Performance third. Time for the distance, 170 yards less than six furlongs, was 1:12 2-5.

Residents Annoyed By Bridge Closing

Immediate Replacement of Gorge Span Necessary, Council Is Told

Government Will Be Asked to Aid Municipalities With New Structure

Grocery store delivery routes, other commercial life and traffic generally between the north and south sides of the Gorge are seriously hampered by closing of the famous old Gorge bridge, it was stated at the Saanich Council meeting yesterday evening.

Residents on both sides of the water have strongly protested barricading of the span as the result of an order condemning it as unsafe. There have already been two cases of persons breaking through the barricades to force a passage across.

The council of both Esquimalt and Saanich municipalities seek immediate replacement of the bridge. The provincial government will be approached to assist financially in rebuilding the structure.

Neither municipality is able to bear the cost alone, but there exists the need for replacement as quickly as possible.

Harold M. Duggan appeared before the Saanich Council to explain the inconvenience to residents of the bridge closing. He mentioned that patrons of the J.B.A.A. and the Gorge Vale Golf Club, both located on the Esquimalt side of the water were at a distinct disadvantage.

TEMPORARY FOOTWALK PROPOSED

Immediate action to provide a passageway for pedestrians was discussed as a result, H. M. Allan, the municipal engineer, said he had talked over with the Esquimalt engineer the construction of a temporary footwalk which would be built in such a way as to discourage foot travelers stopping in the middle of the span.

A joint committee of Saanich and Esquimalt will interview the provincial government to ask for aid in building a new bridge, it was decided. Saanich's representatives are: Acting Reeve W. R. Woods, Councillor G. S. Eden, Clerk R. F. Sewell, and Engineer H. M. Allan.

TURNED OVER BY GOVERNMENT

The bridge which is the centre of the controversy was turned over by the provincial government to the municipalities as a joint responsibility sixteen years ago.

"It was obsolete when turned over to us, and we had no alternative," Reeve Albert Heald of Esquimalt, said. "For this reason we think the government should bear a major share of the cost of replacement."

Painful Piles

Go Quick—No Cutting—No Salves

Thousands who have itching, bleeding or protruding piles have not yet learned that quick and lasting relief can only be accomplished with an internal medicine. Neither salves nor suppositories remove the cause.

Bad circulation of blood in the lower bowel causes piles. The hemorrhoidal veins are flabby, the bowel walls weak—the parts almost dead. To get rid of Piles an internal medicine must be used to stimulate the circulation, drive out the thick impure blood, and restore the affected parts.

Dr. J. S. Leonard, after years of study, found a real internal Pile remedy. He called his discovery HEM-ROID, and prescribed it for 1,000 patients with success in over 900 cases, and then decided every Pile sufferer, no matter how stubborn their case, might try his prescription with a money back guarantee.

So why waste time on external remedies or worry about an operation when MacFarlane and Vancouver Drug Stores and all good druggists—inside you to try HEM-ROID tablets with guarantee of money refunded if they do not end your Pile misery. (Adv.)

NEWS IN BRIEF

Thanks are expressed by Fred Landsberg to the Arion Club for supplying tickets and to the C. & C. taxi for supplying transportation for the concert in the Royal Victoria Theatre.

Three new members were reported to have joined the Credit Grantees' Association of Victoria at the association's luncheon in Spencer's dining room to-day.

Members of the Credit Grantees' Association will join the Chamber of Commerce at a luncheon in the chamber next Friday when Major Harold Brown will deliver an address.

The Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals will hold a tag day to-morrow. Headquarters are at Room A, Campbell Building, where those wishing to assist are asked to call.

The Saanich School Board Wednesday night accepted with regret the resignation of H. A. Glaspeil, principal of the Tolmie Public School, who has been forced by ill-health to vacate his post. He had served for five years and genuine appreciation of his services was expressed by the board.

Rental charges for auditoriums of Saanich high schools when they are taken by various organizations for social or other functions are reduced in a scale adopted by the Saanich School Board Wednesday evening. Individual charges for the different schools were set.

Headed by Oliver M. Prentice and C. G. Banner, who will give talks at the gathering, a delegation of about twelve members from the Credit Grantees' Association of Victoria, will attend the Credit Grantees' Conference of the Pacific Northwest in Vancouver on May 15 and 16.

Final reading was given by the Saanich Council yesterday evening to the annual Tax By-law which sets the combined levy at 42 mills on 100 per cent of land values and 20 per cent of improvements. Councillors D. E. H. Moore, Ward Two, and G. S. Eden, Ward Seven, were recorded against the measure.

The election of members of the Council of the College of Dental Surgeons of British Columbia resulted as follows: District No. 1, W. J. Gibson and E. W. Hetherington; District No. 2, E. C. Jones; District No. 3, R. L. Davidson, W. J. Lea, R. L. Fallon, W. S. Watson, and District No. 4, E. H. Crawford.

The Saanich School Board has decided to go ahead with grading of the Mount Newton High School grounds. The work will be done by relief labour at a total cost of $130 to the board. Frisbie A. E. Hull, who presented the board's committee report on the matter to the board, explained that a steam shovel would be hired to remove blasted stumps on the grounds and to complete the job.

In a judgment handed down this morning, Magistrate George Jay dismissed a charge against Bing W. Chinese, of keeping a lottery joint at 1714 Government Street, Sen. Chin and Joe, charged as runners, also dismissed. The magistrate held that finding by police of some lottery tickets in the place was not sufficient evidence, as there should have been some sign of activity in the matter to warrant a conviction. Frank Higgins, K.C., defended.

This morning in the City Police Court a complaint was heard against V. M. Clarke arising out of a charge laid by the inspector of electrical work under the Electricity Inspection Act, being for tampering with wires leading to a verified meter, causing the meter to register unjustly. A number of witnesses were heard and at the conclusion of the trial Mr. Clarke was found guilty and fined $50. A. D. King appeared for the prosecution and Gordon Cameron for defendant.

"CAT" BURGLAR ENTERS HOME
 Watch and Papers Stolen at Residence of W. B. Lanigan, Uplands

The home of W. B. Lanigan, Cadboro Bay Road, Uplands, was entered by a "cat" burglar yesterday evening while the occupants were absent, according to Oak Bay police.

A watch and a black box containing Mr. Lanigan's personal papers were stolen.

The burglar entered by climbing up a back fence to a sun porch and through a door into a bedroom. The door containing the papers was large and would not likely have been carried far. Mr. Lanigan is anxious to retrieve the papers and police ask that anyone finding the box should turn it in at Oak Bay headquarters.

BEER WAVE IS NOW SPENT

People of States Losing Enthusiasm Over Legalized Beer, Says J. G. Sample

Spirit of Optimism Prevails Under President Roosevelt's New Deal

The beer wave which has swept the United States since the beginning of the month is beginning to subside, states J. G. Sample, of Blackett, Sample and Hummer Advertising Agency, Chicago, who is at the Empress Hotel to-day.

Mr. Sample is a director of the Powell River Pulp and Paper Company, and came from Chicago to attend the annual meeting of the company in Vancouver. He is accompanied by Mrs. Sample.

"For a time everybody was carried on the crest of a great wave of enthusiasm, but the excitement which marked the return of beer is now dying down," added Mr. Sample.

People are drinking beer in the Chicago night clubs in place of cocktails. He observed that the racketeers were not so much in the limelight in Chicago now that beer had been made legal in the States.

"I don't think legalizing of beer will stop the repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment as was expected in some quarters," he said.

Mr. Sample spoke of the great optimism that is sweeping the United States under President Roosevelt's new deal.

"Since the banking moratorium there has been greater confidence everywhere, and money is beginning to flow freely," he said. "Business is moving in the right direction and the people are in a much happier frame of mind."

Mr. Sample's advertising agency handles a large volume of business throughout the United States, and is one of the best known organizations of its kind in the middle west.

He explained that he had come to Victoria to look over the city before hurrying back to Chicago.

INQUEST IS NEXT MOVE

Criminologist's Report on Stewart Ashley Is Now Awaited

Unless further information is forthcoming from an unexpected source, police investigation in Victoria and Vancouver of the death of Stewart Ashley, young Vancouver school teacher, is practically completed.

No developments were reported at headquarters to-day and the case was regarded as in abeyance until the resumption of the inquest next Thursday morning.

Reports with and without foundation, from persons who saw or thought they saw Ashley last week are still coming in and being checked in the regular routine. This morning detectives were checking the story of a youth reported to have talked to Ashley a short time before he died.

Due to the fact that Ashley's body had one gloved hand, all stray gloves picked up by people in the last few days have been turned into the police, who have quite a collection of them, but the mate to that found on the body is still missing.

Canadian Press
 Vancouver, April 28.—Police investigation into the case of Stewart Ashley has been closed, according to an announcement at headquarters to-day.

The finding of the investigators is not being disclosed, but Chief John Cameron declares evidence in police hands would be presented at the resumed session of the inquest.

It is understood, however, that there is nothing to support the abduction and murder theory.

Chief Cameron states much of the evidence will be of a scientific nature, and is being turned over to the Vancouver office of the bureau of criminal science.

Inspector Vance expects to complete his analysis to-day in connection with the search for poison in the body of the youth. It is expected this finding will not be disclosed until the inquest.

WEEK'S REMAND IN HINDU CASE
 Another remand of one week was ordered by Judge K. J. Macdonald yesterday morning in the case of six Hindus charged with wounding with intent to maim Name Singh, who is slowly recovering from a serious head wound inflicted in the Rock Bay district last week.

Gian Singh, Sundar Singh, Harid Singh, Gurdas Singh, Brena and Mehara were each remanded for one week. A. J. Patton appeared for the defence and C. L. Harrison for the prosecution.

Owing to the indisposition of Hon. J. Hinchin of the Ministry of Education, the meeting to have been addressed by him in the Memorial Hall this evening has been postponed.

BIG CIRCUS IS ARRANGED

Fine Programme Drawn Up For Annual Show of Victoria Y.M.C.A.

Will Be Presented in Association's Gymnasium on May 4, 5 and 6

With 300 acrobats and members of drill teams performing in their annual show, members in charge of the Y.M.C.A. circus are looking forward to presenting a better exhibition of work than ever before when they open their event on May 4 for a three day run in the association's gym. Judging from the turns arranged, the function should be an outstanding success.

For some time the various teams have been practising their routines and have them down to perfection. They will have another day or two of rehearsing before the show goes on.

Opening the event, the preps, under Harry Robson, will present a midnight parade with lighted candle marching in the darkness before going into a series of calisthenics in the form of setting-up exercises. About fifty youngsters will be included in the drill.

Intricate flag drills will be performed by the junior school class, under Archie McKinnon. Their part of the programme should be very spectacular, with the multi-colored flags adding to its attractiveness.

GOOD FEATURES
 The junior employed, trained by Bob Gordon, will go through their paces in pole drills with different formations. Pyramids of the intermediate employed group, under the direction of Viv Shoemaker, should provide another item of particular interest.

Spectacular stunts with the springboard and elephant, which will include flying from somersaults with the boys working in different lanes in crescent formation, will be presented by the junior school class.

Scenic dancing will be a highlight by "Lennie and Lenora," while whirling solos by Norval Peterson will add further to the varied interest of the show.

TUMBLING ACT
 As another highlight the International Five will give a smart display of tumbling that should rival anything seen in the city for years. The squad has been working well on the difficult routines and will doubtless have many new tricks to spring on the spectators. A burlesque attraction will be included in this department of the programme.

A hand-picked high bar squad will add another touch of the spectacular to the performance before the senior leaders take the floor in long horse and springboard work.

Apart from the actual gymnastic work will be a delightful dancing exhibition by pupils of Dorothy Wilson's Russian Ballet School.

Novelty will be cared for by the Quad Club, members of which have arranged several interesting innovations.

While the acrobats are proceeding with their serious routines, Ralph Alcock and Charles de Macedo, known all over the Pacific Northwest for their ability as clowns, will provide the main comedy element.

Special works of the circus will be held to-morrow morning at 9.30, with the junior leaders taking the floor an hour later and the junior employed at 2 o'clock in the afternoon.

On Monday the junior school class will round out its practices at 4.15 o'clock, with the junior employed going over their work at 7.30 in the evening. Intermediate employed will practice at 8.15 o'clock and the tumbling group at 9.15 o'clock that evening.

The leader corps, comedy teams and high bar squad will use the gym on Tuesday evening at 7 o'clock.

Vic Meyers is coming.

Los Angeles Man Sends Donation

From Los Angeles has come a $10 donation to Victoria's municipal band fund. Alderman John Worthington, parks committee chairman, announced this morning.

A cheque for this amount, signed by E. W. Stanton, was received by the parks committee chairman, announced this morning. It was to go in the fund, of which he had read in the newspapers.

While not acquainted with the donor, Alderman Worthington said he believed Mr. Stanton was a former Victorian who still holds a high regard for his old home town.

COMPENSATION WORK SKETCHED

Manner in Which Act Administered Outlined to Credit Grantees at Luncheon

E. S. H. Winn, K.C., Chairman, Refers to Some Difficulties of Board

The history and administration of the Workmen's Compensation Board, of which he has been chairman since its inception, were outlined to members of the Credit Grantees' Association in an address by E. S. H. Winn, K.C., in Spencer's dining-room to-day.

The speaker said the board had paid out $42,138.953 from January, 1917, to December 31, 1932 and had handled 407,534 claims.

The more people understand the Workmen's Compensation Act, the more easily can we administer it," Mr. Winn said.

The existing act came into force in 1917 after it had been remodelled from that introduced in British Columbia in 1902, based on the British act of 1906.

NEED PROMPT REPORTS
 The speaker referred to the difficulties regarding reports on injuries to workmen. If reports were submitted immediately the case was clear. If it was delayed, but if reports were late, they were open to question.

He spoke of the dissatisfaction preceding the passing of the act in cases where employers were held responsible. Many times this led to friction between the workman and the employer, both of whom lost money through court action.

With the establishment of a compensation board, jurisdiction over such matters was taken into its hands, cutting down largely on wastage. The British Columbia board cost a little over three per cent of collections for administration, he said.

He explained the machinery of the Workmen's Compensation Board, with various industries divided into groups which were determined by the risk rate in the industry.

The cost of accidents in each group determined the rate of compensation board collections. Groups were so divided that each class was required to provide its own injury costs.

Regarding the cost of medical treatment the speaker explained the manner in which the fund for this was determined and the way in which it was disbursed.

RESERVES
 Reserves had been made a football in the province, he said. He showed how each industry had to meet its accident costs of the year. In the case of a permanent disability, when compensation had to be carried through-out life, funds were set aside from the main collections and placed in a reserve, he said.

The board considered industry should carry the injured workmen the same way as it made provision for the replacement and repair of machinery.

Mr. Winn explained the methods by which claims were put in and forms made out.

In the case of disagreement, the board heard the case of a disabled man without the formalities of a "red-tape" court action.

Many difficulties arise over the lack of understanding of the limitations of the act which provided for injury from accident during the course of employment in those industries covered by the Workmen's Compensation Act. The act was specific and while there were many things not covered the act was being extended. Some time to-day and the taxpayer was generally the person who had to meet the obligation.

Metropolitan United Church
 Rev. E. F. Church, B.A., will officiate. A good attendance is requested.
 ALEX. McCABE, Secretary.

He suggested the employers assist in every way possible an injured man, but urged them to make sure of the facts before criticizing the compensation board.

Mr. Winn referred to the case of arthritis in which afflicted people frequently believed they had sprained a joint while working, whereas the damage had been done in the course of their leisure time and could not claim compensation, he said.

Bernias, sprained backs and joint conditions were the most difficult cases to deal with, inasmuch as they could not be met by the compensation act, he said.

Following his address, Mr. Winn answered questions put to him by the meeting.

AVIATION NOTES

Believing that with finer weather conditions on the Bridge River air line, and the opening of a busy season's work soon to commence in that area, traffic on the Vancouver-Bridge River service should show a sharp increase. Wells Air Transport is offering a considerable reduction in the air travel fare. Rates for freight shipments remain the same.

Eyes of the world are on Canada's gold mining areas. Evidence of the interest taken in British Columbia's important gold-producing areas is found in the news that L. Roy and A. Hague, Associated Screen News representatives are in Vancouver making arrangements to visit this area to film a news-reel story. They plan to travel with Gordon K. MacKenzie, on the Bridge River air line, taking pictures of the scenic feast on route and spending several days in the Bridge River district. It is possible this film may be shown all over Canada and the States. The news-reel reports that snow-clad peaks such as those seen on this division are the marvel of residents of eastern Canada. They are quite enthusiastic over the possibilities offered of this trip to make an interesting news-reel story.

There is hardly a day goes by but some new conveyance to air travel is not made on the Vancouver-Victoria air line. This week Art Kerr of Victoria made the flight across the gulf—the first time he has flown. A new recruit to the ranks of the enthusiastic air-minded was obtained, for Mr. Kerr was delighted with his experience. Another first-time passenger on this division was E. H. Harris of Victoria, who was frankly disappointed in the trip. He declared that it was far too short, that he imagined he was going to receive all manner of exciting impressions, but discovered himself calmly looking down on the beautiful gulf islands, unable to realize that he was flying through the air at even one-quarter of the 100-mile an hour speed maintained on this flight.

Pacific Airways Limited, C. B. Elliott, pilot, is inaugurating a Howe Sound air service commencing May 1. A four-passenger airplane will fly the seaplane harbor, Vancouver airport, just after the departure of Wells Air Transport's Victoria plane, making the run to Squamish four days a week—Monday, Wednesday, Friday and Sunday are the schedule days for this flight, with departures from Squamish at 3:45 p.m., to arrive at Vancouver airport near the time of arrival for the afternoon plane from Victoria. Stops at intermediate points on Howe Sound will be made by special arrangement.

Roy Simons of Victoria has been appointed special representative for the capital city by Wells Air Transport Limited. He is establishing air travel headquarters in the Dominion Hotel on Yates Street. Mr. Simons is a well-known resident of Victoria, having been in the automotive and transportation business there for a number of years. Closely associated with Gordon K. MacKenzie, chief pilot of Wells Air's operations, he is convinced that air transportation in British Columbia is on the eve of considerable development. All reservations for travel from Victoria will be booked through Mr. Simons.

Plans for Aviation Week in Vancouver, May 22 to May 28, are rapidly nearing completion. In addition to talks before schools and aviation programmes before clubs and organizations, it is hoped that retail merchants will feature Aviation Week displays. Attractions are being arranged at the airport, with a big air programme on May 24, the Junior Service League being interested to take charge of this event. City championships in model flying are being arranged, and demonstrations of the work of members of the Private Aircraft Club of British Columbia, a number of whom are building light aircraft. Commercial operators, the Aero Club of British Columbia (whose smoker will be held on May 19), Air Pilots' Association and the airport managers are co-operating to stage a big programme of public education, to create interest in aviation, to show its importance in British Columbia, and to bring home to the citizens of Vancouver a greater realization of the value of their own airport facilities.

I. S. BROWN OF MONTREAL DIES

The city of Hamilton has brought into operation a new water purification plant erected at a cost of $1,175,000.

Memories of Luis Angel Firpo, "Wild Bull of the Pampas"

Macdonald Smith Referred to as the Forgotten Man of Golf

Dink Templeton, U.S. Colorful Track Coach, Resumes Duties

H. D. Twigg, M.P.P., Acting Mayor Adams, Les Patrick and Others Will Take Part

OPENING CALLED FOR 8 O'CLOCK

Eight Local Booster Teams Will See Action To-night; Complete Schedule Given

Luis Angel Firpo, the man who knocked Jack Dempsey out of the ring in one of the most thrilling moments in boxing history, was arrested the other day in Buenos Aires on charges against the "Wild Bull of the Pampas" was that of swindling in connection with a land deal. Firpo was dumb in many ways, but not as a business man. The late Tex Rickard produced papers on one occasion to show that he had paid Firpo $388,000 for three fights against Dempsey, Willard and Willis in the United States. The Argentine shared none of this money with managers as he was his own manager.

Firpo arrived in the United States with a celluloid collar and a few pesos. For his first fight he received only a few hundred dollars from the promoters, but he took his own money in South America for $75,000. Firpo was one of the biggest eaters, fight critics have ever seen not baring the giant Carnera. A light lunch for him while he was in training consisted of two large tenderloin steaks, a half-dozen fried eggs and a couple of loaves of French bread. Firpo really liked Dempsey. The latter went flying through the ropes and it was at least fifteen seconds before he was rushed back into the ring.

The forgotten man of golf is Macdonald Smith, Carnoustie Scot, who twenty-three years ago tied for the U.S. open championship only to lose to his brother Alex in the playoff. Smith's game should have paid him good dividends and he should have been champion a number of times. True, Mac has won numerous tournaments but never the British or U.S. open titles. His extraordinary bad luck in open championships has had no equal.

In 1925 when the British open was played at Prestwick, Mac had the championship in the palm of his hand, but tossed it to Long Jim Barnes, who he could not break 80 on his last round.

When Bobby Jones was on his grand slam spree in 1930, Smith finished second to him in both open championships. After Jones had slipped on the last nine he closed the door in Smith's face by sinking a forty-footer on the eighteenth hole at Interlachen.

With only three holes left to play in the 1931 British open at his home course, Carnoustie, Smith's ambition seemed about to be realized. A perfectly played iron shot that kicked into a bunker at the sixteenth put him out of his winning stride. Armour captured the crown.

Fate again beckoned during the British open at St. Andrews. Only once had the British open been won with a score under 290. Mac's 288 usually would win any man's tournament but Sarazen set a new record of 283 which left Mac in second place.

Mac is now past forty. He is entering his twenty-fourth year of professional competition. Still chasing the rainbow.

United States' most colorful track and field coach has come back from the shadows of death. Only once had the British open been won with a score under 290. Mac's 288 usually would win any man's tournament but Sarazen set a new record of 283 which left Mac in second place.

To-night, at 8 o'clock, at the Olympic Alleys, Yates Street, the twentieth annual Northwestern International Bowling Congress will get under way with several of Victoria's leading citizens taking part in the opening ceremony. The following will each roll a ball down the alleys, marking the start of the congress: H. D. Twigg, M.P.P.; Acting Mayor Adams, G. H. Informers Seek $123,000 Prize

Amherst, N.S., April 28.—Legal action claiming the $123,000 won by Claude Horne in the grand National sweepstakes has been commenced here against the Dartmouth oil pumpman by another Dartmouth man, James D. Synott. Forfeiture of the fortune gained by Horne when Kellsboro Jack led the field at Aintree this year is claimed by his fellow-townsmen, who has secured a writ against the lucky ticket holder.

WINDSOR OUT FOR REVENGE

Eastern Cage Champs Seek Vindication of Loss to Adanacs in 1929

Canadian Finals Against Local Blue Ribbons Will Be "Rubber" Series

Calgary, April 29.—Rivalry that began five years ago will flare again to-morrow night when the Windsor-Walkerville Alumni and Victoria Blue Ribbons clash at Victoria in the first game of the Canadian senior basketball finals. Alumni, who passed through here to-day on their second pilgrimage to the Coast in four years, will seek to avenge their loss in 1928 to a British Columbia team and lost the following year to Coast province representatives. It will be the "rubber" series for them, and for Blue Ribbons, too, in so far as they represent British Columbia.

Windsor's David-and-Goliath feud with a whole province, began back in 1928 when the Border Cities' cagers won the Canadian championship from University of British Columbia at Windsor.

Hopeful of taking two national titles in the same number of years, Alumni traveled to New Westminster in 1929 and lost to Canadian champions again. They returned east with their championship lost to New Westminster Adanacs by a lone point on the second round.

FOR THREE YEARS
For three years Alumni fortunes faded and they were unable to reach the national finals. Again eastern Canada representatives, they are on their way to another chance at the title that slipped through their fingers four years ago.

Three members of the team that beat University of British Columbia in 1929 and lost to Adanacs in 1929, still are in the Alumni lineup. For Don King, ranked as an outstanding guard in the Canadian game; Bill Butler, ace forward; and Eddie Dawson, left guard, the present invasion of the west is a vindication pilgrimage. King and Butler have been Alumni stars since their team was formed seven years ago, and Dawson joined the year they won from the Coast province university.

REPAID OUT OF CLASSIC

James F. Johnson Will Not Start His Star in Kentucky Derby Next Month

Louisville, Ky., April 28.—The "big four" of eastern contenders for the $58,000 Kentucky Derby stake had been cut to the "big three" to-day with announcement by James F. Johnson, owner of the Quincey Stable, that he would not send Repaid to Churchill Downs.

Repaid, one of the future book favorites, raced poorly in two starts at Havre de Grace. His withdrawal leaves W. R. Coe's Ladyanna, Adolphus Pomm's Swivel and F. A. Griffith's Saratoga to bear the principal hopes of the east in the historic race, May 6.

The R. M. Eastman estate's Cherley O., a leading western Derby contender, worked a mile and an eighth in racing time at Douglas Park yesterday. His time was this distance was 1:53 3-5, handsly.

The Florida Derby winner, apparently as fit as hands can make him, ran a quarter in 1:25 1-5; half in 48 2-5; three-quarters in 1:13 3-5, and the mile in 1:40 2-5.

Matches in Club Golf Tournament

The second and semi-finals rounds of the annual men's club championship at the Victoria Golf Club must be played on Saturday, April 29. It was announced to-day. Players must arrange their own starting times. The final over thirty-six holes will be played on Sunday, May 1.

CARTER SCORES KNOCKOUT
Everett, Wash., April 28.—Wildcat Carter, Everett, nego, knocked out Tommy Sanico, Seattle, in the fifth round of a scheduled six-round bout here yesterday evening, after leading all the way. Both weighed 138.

Edmonton Grads Smother Toronto In Opening Game

Percy Page's Stars Hand Toronto Ladies 79-24 Defeat in Canadian Cage Final

BABE BELANGER SCORING STAR

Edmonton, April 28.—With the petite Mamselle Belanger going on a personal scoring rampage and aided with great éclat by Gladys Fry and Margaret MacBurney, Coach J. Percy Page's Grads, perennial basketball champions of Canada, hung a decisive defeat on the Toronto Ladies' team here yesterday evening by the wide count of 79 to 24. The game was the first of a two-out-of-three series for the Canadian title.

Rated in reports from the east as the strongest of challengers to come from that section of the country in several years, the Torontonians fell considerably below expectations. At no time did they give the impression that they would make the contention close and long before the finish they were badly outclassed.

DOUBLE HANDICAP
In all fairness it should be mentioned that they played under a double handicap. Conni Colston, the easterners' six foot centre, went into the fray with a badly damaged hand that made the task of checking Gladys Fry, one of the game's greatest scorers, very difficult.

When things got close the Grads were always capable of turning in some smart basketball. Toronto fought to the last ditch, but they simply could not compete with the Grads.

But while the easterners were concentrating on MacBurney they made the fatal mistake of letting Babe Belanger, another superstar of Page's quintette, run loose and that proved their downfall. Miss Belanger alone accounted for 27 of the Grads' points, three more than the entire Toronto team scored.

Everton and Manchester City Battle For English Cup at Wembley To-morrow

Terrific Battle Being Looked For

Experts Make Everton Slight Favorite; King George and Queen Mary May Attend

London, April 28.—Manchester City and Everton, the two soccer aggregations who survived the long, treacherous 1932-33 path towards the English Cup, are straining at their leashes waiting to tear into each other to-morrow in search of the coveted cup, emblematic of English soccer championship.

Wembley Stadium has been transformed into a soccer setting that will see 95,513 persons jam its every nook and cranny. Weather permitting, King George and Queen Mary will be present, together with scores of England's prominent leaders of all walks of life. The visiting West Indies cricketers have reserved seats.

The teams, both from Lancashire, are as set. The last few weeks have seen the players looking after themselves and making no unnecessary changes in league play. They are finely trained and highly confident, and the scores of other requisites to the final match all indicate to-morrow's tilt will do justice to its honored position.

FITNESS IS READY
All the greyhound racing equipment, including traps, hurdles, hundreds of electric light globes and an eight-ton bridge over the hare escape, have been removed. The pitch is in excellent condition, cut and rolled. Goal-posts, already been erected, so that all in all, the famous stadium has taken on a new aspect.

Four hundred attendants and turnstile men turned out to-day for the rehearsal of their duties. All night long the catering staff will be busy in the various refreshment buffets and marquees preparing sandwiches, drinks, light lunches and other foodstuffs. Six doctors, twelve nurses and 100 ambulance men will be in service during the day to care for spectators who might be injured in the crush or players "wounded in battle."

The attendance figure given at 9:30 is arrived at as being the maximum capacity. Close to 200,000 would throng the place if it were room for them, but it is policy are anticipating great milling crowds outside the stadium.

Every train is being pressed into service. More than 1,800 electric trams will move in and out of the station and at the critical times about 1,000 fans will be handled every minute.

Everton, who arrived at Wembley from Buxton yesterday evening, have been chosen their team. Dinn's damaged thigh muscle has yielded to treatment of the club's blind masseur so the fast outside right will be able to play. He is a veteran international and one of high ability and would have been greatly missed.

Manchester players have been going and looking at the stadium. Heretofore, typical rainy weather. They visited the stadium Wednesday to become acquainted with its layout.

MANCHESTER INDEFINITE
Manchester is unable to announce its team pending definite knowledge whether or not Tilsen, centre forward, who has recovered from injury to a leg nerve.

Both Manchester City and Everton have been in the cup before. Manchester, however, has never played at Wembley. The last and only time Everton won the cup was in 1906, when they defeated Bolton Wanderers, 1 to 0. Manchester has won the cup only once, defeating Bolton Wanderers, 1 to 0, in 1904. Everton lost to Sheffield Wednesday 2 to 1, in 1907.

In the English League, first division position stands at present in eleven. Everton and Manchester City fifteenth. Everton are given a slight advantage in the betting due to their better league average. Cup final play, holds no brief for scarlet jerseys and white knickers. Everton will present a more sombre appearance in white jerseys and black knickers.

In the event of a draw, the match will be replayed next to the pitch on the Blackburn Rovers' ground. G. T. Gould (London), and F. Ratcliff (Middlesex), have been appointed linesmen for the match.

Everton—E. Sagar, goal; W. Cook, right back; W. Cresswell, left back; C. Britton, right half; T. White, centre half; J. Thompson, left half; A. Geldard, outside right; J. Dunn, inside right; W. R. Dean, centre forward; T. Johnson, inside left; J. Smith, outside left.

Results of recent cup finals are: 1932, Newcastle beat Arsenal, 2 to 1; 1931, West Bromwich beat Birmingham, 2 to 1; 1930, Arsenal beat Huddersfield, 2 to 0; 1929, Bolton Wanderers beat Portsmouth, 2 to 0; 1928, Blackburn Rovers beat Huddersfield, 3 to 0.

PUSIE WINNER IN MAT DEBUT

Quebec, April 28.—A crowd which had seen Gene Fusie on the ice here as a member of the Quebec Beavers, yesterday evening cheered him on as he roughed and tumbled with Lou Plummer and finally flattened him in 7.53 for a one-fall victory in his local wrestling debut. Fusie, who played with Vancouver Maroons last season, is now with the New York Rangers of the N.H.L.

Spencer Is Forced Out of Bike Race

Boston, April 28.—An attack of ptomaine poisoning forced Freddy Spencer, sprinting sensation, from the track of the Boston six-day bicycle race yesterday evening as a pair of legs left three teams tied for the lead with Grimm and Sergiwin ahead on points.

Spencer's partner, Jimmy Walthour, had ridden and lost hours of relief. Jimmy had until midnight to pick a new partner and it was expected that De Lillo, whose partner, La Penetre, also was ill, would team with him.

Sharkey Will Not Fight Schmeling

Boston, April 28.—The assertion that Jack Sharkey, heavyweight champion, would not give Max Schmeling a crack at his title this year and would never box under Jack Dempsey's promotion was made yesterday by Manager John Buckley.

Buckley said Sharkey's only bout this year would be his title defence against Primo Carnera for the New York Madison Square Garden in June. After that, Buckley said, Sharkey planned to make a European trip with his family.

Unsuspected pitching power that can be brought into play almost every day against opposing clubs has placed the New York Giants at the top of their class. Behind the hurling of Carl Hubbell, star southpaw, Giants opened up in the eighth inning of their game with Phillies yesterday to score a 5 to 2 victory and climb into first place.

Chicago Cubs shoved Pittsburgh out of the lead, beating the Pirates, 3 to 2, on the strength of a big fourth inning.

Brooklyn, in third place, came out ahead by a 1 to 0 count in the season's third mound duel between the Dodgers' "rookie" right-hander and Ed Brandt, Boston southpaw. St. Louis Cardinals took their first decision from Cincinnati in the fourth National League contest, winning 3 to 2 when they bunched four straight singles with a walk

Automobile Plants Speed Production

New Schedules Are Prompted by Increased Orders; Ford Working Six Days, Chevrolet Five; Other Plants Speed Up Accordingly

Detroit, April 28.—This automotive city within the past week has found itself riding a wave of optimism such as has not been noted in many, many weary months. The expected sales bulge, which was hoped for about the middle of the month, arrived ahead of schedule, and all plants here have reacted to definite demand.

Few of the sales executives have announced definite figures, but the working schedules at the plants tell the story as plainly as official announcements could do. Every plant here is working directly on demand and if orders had not been received activity in the plants would not have increased as it has done during this present week.

This upward swing in manufacturing has been general. The Chevrolet plant is now working on a full five-day basis. Ford's Rouge plant is actually working six days a week. Last Saturday the engine assembly line operated, the first time in more than a year that this department has been in operation on Saturday. Plymouth is running full speed ahead on its new deluxe models. All the other vehicle plants have speeded up operations.

H. J. Klingler of Chevrolet some days ago told Automotive Daily News that his company had enjoyed a sharp increase in sales during late March, but apparently that was just a beginning. Reports here, borne out by plant activity, indicate that Chevrolet's production for April will reach 55,000, with an excellent chance that it may go to 60,000 vehicles. It is known that Ford's Rouge plant has been turning out 2,000 units a day for some time with further expansion in sight. The tentative schedule at Rouge was 40,000 for April, but the output will actually be nearer 50,000.

Plymouth will build between 18,000 and 20,000 units, according to an announcement by Harry Mook, the sales manager. It is understood that Plymouth's production now is running around 1,250 a day, with increases in view. The other Chrysler units will probably show an aggregate of 10,000 to 12,000 output. Hudson has lifted its production and is understood to be running through around 1,000 units a week. Pontiac will probably touch 8,000 vehicles in April. Oldsmobile is increasing its output rate. Cadillac will build between 1,100 and 1,200 units.

From this vantage point of the middle of the month it certainly looks entirely possible or even likely that April production will exceed that of the same month of last year, which was 155,136. According to the present outlook, Ford, Chevrolet and Chrysler among them will account for more than 130,000 vehicle units in April. If they do this, last April's record is due for a severe fracture.

In reading these production features one fact that is borne in mind, that production to-day practically means sales. So closely are manufacturing operations being held to day-to-day demand that production and sales are practically twins.

If the past few weeks bring the developments in the market for motor vehicles that may reasonably be expected, sentiment and morale in the automotive industry will be just about restored to its normal condition of conservative optimism.

Calgary Claims Title To Canada's First Auto

For what it is worth, the claim of a Toronto writer is presented to the effect that the first automobile to enter Canada was operated by Sam Coghane, who some time between 1895 and 1898 "introduced it to interested onlookers on Stephen Avenue (now Eighth) in Calgary, Alberta, steering the cumbersome and noisy vehicle among frightened horses and dodging citizens until something went wrong and he labored for hours to get it started again. The account goes on to say that many of the older citizens refused to believe their eyes and their ears and ran away in fright, which, if you remember the 1893 models, seems probable. Another early Calgary horseless carriage, date and model not mentioned, was owned and driven by a rising young lawyer named R. B. Bennett. The Coghane car still runs, is owned by Charles Jackson, and regularly takes part in the Calgary Stampede parade.

Heartening Figures

Omens of increasing prosperity for the Canadian motor industry this year have been observed at factories, motor shows and sales rooms. In previous economic valleys it was said the automotive industry would lead the way back to higher levels. Just to the contrary, some people in the present situation have said conditions would have to return to normal before the motor industry could flourish again. Where in between these two views, perhaps lies the truth of the matter. A look at the world situation has convinced a number of people that the end of the depression is not impossible. In fact, a sales increase. Great Britain, for instance, reported an increase of new car registrations last year, as well as an increase of exports. Front Detroit comes the news that Chevrolet in January had the biggest month since June of last year. In Canada, Chevrolet and many other lines are off to a good start. "The best month since 1929" is a phrase the public may soon expect to hear.

Studebaker Features Gracefully Beautiful

"Studebaker engineers have achieved something more than just a beautiful automobile in the new cars — although beauty is fully subscribed to in every phase of their work," according to Mr. R. J. Jameson. "They have achieved something more than performance alone — more than comfort alone — more than safety alone. Instead, there is the fullest measure of every quality that goes to make the new Studebakers the most satisfying cars that ever took the road."

"The new Studebakers look as modern as they are gracefully beautiful, without becoming radical. Every line flows easily, naturally from front to back with no violent or sudden deviations to mar the perfect rhythm. The slanting radiator and radiator aprons blend into fenders to give a very clean, simple touch to the front of the cars. The roof line curves back into a concave rear deck with a treatment that is doubly attractive because it conceals the rear springs and spring shackles."

"This new body treatment is practical as well as beautiful, for it combines practical grace with the scientific findings of airplane experiments. Power is saved in the higher speed ranges and ease of handling acceleration and flexibility increased. Another enhancement of appearance having utilitarian value is the dropping of wheel sizes one inch on all eight cylinder models. It permits larger tires, giving all the advantages of 'doughnuts' with none of the drawbacks caused by extreme. A new metal artillery wheel has also been developed that is a marked improvement in appearance. It can be either chromium plated or painted at a slight increase in cost. Wire wheels are regular."

NEW DE LUXE PLYMOUTH SIX

A new DeLuxe Plymouth Six is announced as the "largest six cylinder automobile in the low-price field." The new automobile is a companion car to the Plymouth Six.

In announcing the new car, officials of the Plymouth Motor Corporation of Canada Limited, revealed that the new DeLuxe Plymouth Six presented an array of fine-car features never before available in the low-price field, it was declared.

The DeLuxe Plymouth Six is lower and longer. The wheelbase is 112 inches. Retaining all of the basic Plymouth engineering features, the DeLuxe Plymouth also offers a larger frame, smart new radiator design and interior trim and fittings which, it is stated, bring a real luxury note to this low-priced car.

A wide selection of smart new colors add to the new car's individuality. "The new Plymouth is a de luxe car in every sense of the word," John C. McGuire, general sales manager of the Plymouth Motor Corporation of Canada Limited, stated yesterday. "We believe that it introduces an entirely new standard of value and luxury to the low-price field. It does not replace the Plymouth Six model, but comes into the line as a companion to it."

"Retaining all of Plymouth's mechanical features, the new car has a really amazing array of new style advantages. The interiors of the de luxe model are smartly tailored and exquisitely fitted. Broadcloth upholstery is standard in all models except the convertible coupe which is upholstered in leather."

"The new car is a smart design, are used in the sedan. This model has many other striking new features. The new car includes a comfortable carpet-covered foot rest, arm rests, heavily padded carpet, dome light, slanting rear curtain and assist loops."

"The instrument panel and all garnish moldings are in a rich grain, walnut finish. The instrument panel is a combination of convenience and beauty. All instruments are included in a master unit in the centre. This unit contains a large clock-type speedometer, an oil gauge, ammeter, gasoline gauge and engine temperature indicator. The entire unit is clearly lighted by indirect lighting, and controlled by a separate switch. The figures for the individual instruments are etched on the dull silver base of the instrument unit."

Firms Co-operate in a Great Bargain Day for Motorists

TO-MORROW the motorist of Victoria is going to be treated as an individual whose expenditure means more to the welfare of the city than most people realize. He is going to profit by a Dollar Day that is staged for his own special benefit... a Dollar Day offered exclusively by new car dealers to mark a turning point in conditions that have prevailed for four years.

Those in close touch with the motor car industry are most emphatic that a change is at hand. Year after year motor car manufacturers have produced improved and finer cars at lower prices, and now motorists are realizing that the desire to own a smart new car is worth more in satisfaction than its low cost. It is a healthy condition for Canadian industry... it is a source of satisfaction to the new car dealer because he is in a better position than ever before to give service and satisfaction.

The vastly greater output of new cars this year means but one thing. Shrewd buyers are replacing their old cars at to-day's low prices because they realize that money inflation and raising of commodity prices is bound to come. Motor car prices will be higher. To-day's dollar may only be worth fifty cents to-morrow! These are reasons why you should consider buying a new car now... why you should drive it... enjoy it... and be proud of it. New car dealers join in offering these exceptional values for to-morrow only.

A Definite Upswing

Painting a bright spot on the automotive horizon, passenger car registrations for the city of Toronto in March were higher for the second month in succession than for the corresponding month of 1932. Moreover, the increase in March was greater than the increase in February. All makes combined showed an increase of 14 per cent over registrations in March of last year. Seven lines revealed gains, notably the sales of Chevrolet, which were 45 per cent greater than a year ago. Chevrolet also stood out conspicuously in figures for all Canada for the two months of January and February, in which period 45 per cent of sales in the lower-priced group went to Chevrolet, the next car in line securing 14.5 per cent of the group.

New Lubrication Plan

Latest development in service work is the selling of a lubrication programme along with the car. General Motors Products of Canada Limited makes history by introducing this idea through its dealers. Method of operation: When a new General Motors car is delivered, a lubrication coupon book is delivered with it. The coupon book is not transferable and contains ten coupons, each of which, when signed by the owner, is good for one lubrication at any authorized General Motors dealership in Canada. Coupons with 1933 cars are good until December 31, 1934.
